JOHNSON FIRES ANSCOMB

LIBERAL PARTY HAS BIGGEST HOUSE GROUP

° If Premier Johnson forms a Liberal government, as expected, he will probably command a slight majority in the Legislature.

Present standing by party affiliations is: Liberals, 23; Conservatives, 11; C.C.F., 8; Labor, 1; Social Credit, 1; Independent, 1; Coalition, 3. Total 48.

Fate of a straight Liberal government would depend on the way the three Coalitionists vote. They are Labor Minister John Cates, H. J. Welch of Comox and B. M. McIntyre of MacKenzie. Should they all support the premier he would command 25 votes, against 22 for combined opponents. The Speaker, Mrs. Nancy Hodges, who is a Liberal, does not vote.

Authorize Home Power Rate Boost

Accounts Over $3 A Month Up
Minimum Of $1 Immediately

Increased residential electricity rates for the B.C. Electric Co. were approved today by the Public Utilities Commission.

They are effective immediately.

Accounts of $3 a month will not be affected, according to the company. Those over $3 will be affected "in proportion to consumption" with a minimum increase of $1 a month per account.

The new rate will be 2.5 cents a kilowatt hour as compared to the old two-cent-a-kilowatt hour charge. It will be applied to what the company calls "second-step" rates.

"We have accepted the company's new schedules and filed them," D. K. Penfold, acting chairman of the P.U.C., announced.

HITS ALL B.C.

"The application was for half a cent increase on second block of domestic residential rate," he added. "The increase will apply to all the company's operations in B.C."

The company presented the schedules for filing Dec. 27. When they are accepted they become a legal, chargeable rate, Penfold said. He added that Victoria City Council was the only group to ask for a meeting with the P.U.C. on the matter.

"Our staff spent the greater part of two weeks in Vancouver, verifying figures the company submitted," he said.

No public hearing was held on the residential rate application as all matters pertaining to the B.C. Electric's rates, costs and expenditures were aired at a public hearing in November and December, when the company asked for an increased rate of return, according to Penfold.

"We have not and do not intend to bring down a decision for some time on that hearing."

PREMIER CHARGES 'FLAGRANT BREACH'

Text Of Statement Details 'Disregard Of
Constitutional Procedure' By Tory Chief

Text of the announcement issued by the premier's office follows:

Resignation of Hon. Herbert Anscomb as minister of finance and as a minister of the Crown was requested at a cabinet meeting this morning by Premier Byron I. Johnson on grounds of "a flagrant and arrogant disregard of the procedure of constitutional government."

Demand for the resignation came in consequence of Mr. Anscomb's "unwarranted and precipitate announcement that an agreement had been reached between the two governments in connection with the Dominion-Provincial taxation agreement renewal."

In asking the minister of finance for his resignation, Premier Johnson in a press statement stated that "in spite of repeated violations by Mr. Anscomb of those principles governing the responsibilities of a cabinet ministers I have, in the public interest, long refrained from taking this action. I have had no wish to create any instability in our economic and other affairs, but the action of the minister of finance in giving to the press the results of negotiations at Ottawa before he had advised and consulted with his colleagues in the cabinet constitute such a flagrant and arrogant disregard of the procedure of constitutional government that I had no other alternative.

Had To Ask For Copy

"Such action must have been merely for the sake of securing some publicity and cannot be countenanced. 'I cannot have any trust in a minister who resorts to such tactics,' the premier stated.

"I note from the press statement issued by Mr. Anscomb that he says an agreement has been reached between the two governments. No agreement had been reached because the government of this province was not consulted by Mr. Anscomb before he issued his statement. In fact the first intimation I had that such a press statement existed was from the members of the press gallery, who sought my observations in connection with it. It was necessary for my office to request and personally secure a copy of the release from Mr. Anscomb's office long after it had been issued to the press," the premier stated.

"This action on the part of Mr. Anscomb culminates a long series of political reprehensible actions, which in the public's interest I have in the past chosen to ignore in as much as there was so much at stake. There is still a great deal at stake in this province, the success of which can only be achieved by having harmonious government, and this I believe can only be secured by the action I have been compelled to take in face of the circumstances," the premier continued.

'Deliberately Baited' Colleagues

For nearly three years the minister of finance has deliberately baited my colleagues and me. He has carried on an open fight with a minister of the Crown in direct contradiction to government policy on the question of removing appointment of King's Counsels from any influence of political importuning. In radio speeches he has given notice of dissolution of Coalition and then at the same time carried on with an arrangement which he admits he does not like. At the last session of the Legislature he delivered a budget address which was drastically amended from the one he presented to Cabinet, the amended speech constituting a public criticism of a fellow minister of the Crown. These and many other instances my colleagues and I forebore in the best interests of the people, but there comes a time when repeated violations of constitutional procedure cannot be longer countenanced. The failure to consult the members of the Lieutenant-Governor in Council before issuing a press statement on his negotiations at Ottawa has strained my patience to the breaking point.

Public Disapproval Of Policy

"Prior to giving this statement, and prior to his departure for the east, Mr. Anscomb recorded a 15-minute speech for the CBC in which he stated and I quote:

"Now let me go further than that and say that our position in the Coalition has sometimes been rather a difficult one. Many problems have come up and been dealt with that have not necessarily received our support in the ordinary sense of the political life of the country, but in a Coalition we recognize our responsibility as a democratic force and have given way to the majority, which, of course, is right and proper under our system of democracy."

"I quote this statement," the Premier said, "because it is so indicative of many other instances of a similar character that Mr. Anscomb has made when he seems to have desired to express his disapproval of government policy while still at the same time remaining within the government."

"Mr. Anscomb, I fear, is not familiar with his obligations as a minister of the Crown under our form of constitutional government, and in this connection I would refer to F. A. Ogg, who, in his 'English Government and Politics,' page 151, says:

If the Cougars go on like this, their scores are going to sound like totin' up a cribbage hand—15-2, 15-4. . . .

That Congressman who thought he could annex Canada—he must be the one that got elected for his banjo playing.

Both the premier and the finance minister are fired—Boss with indignation, Herb with alacrity.

EARLY ELECTION IS HOPE OF C.C.F. MEMBERS

Arthur Turner, C.C.F. whip, said today: "The break was no surprise and not unexpected. The political confusion in this province and particularly within the Coalition was made clear to the public at the time of the Esquimalt by-election."

"If the disturbance is carried to the floor of the legislature, the public cannot expect well-reasoned and carefully prepared legislation."

"An early election, we hope, will help to bring political stability to the province."

Tension Hits In Middle East

(Compiled from CP, AP, UP Dispatches)

A state of emergency was declared in Cairo, Friday morning, as the Egyptian-British feud spluttered into tension-wracked expectancy and fear.

In Cairo the independent newspaper Al-Ahram said today British military authorities cut off three major cities in the Suez Canal zone from the rest of Egypt to control the area. Cities affected were reported to be Suez, Ismailia, Port Said.

Other happenings included: 1. Five Egyptians today beat and seriously wounded Rev. J. T. Tomlinson, a British Methodist clergyman outside the post office at Port Said.

Break May Bring Early Election

British Columbia's Coalition government of Liberals and Conservatives broke apart this morning in a series of fast-moving developments.

A general election within a short time, with Liberals and Conservatives appealing as separate parties, was an immediate prospect.

The dramatic smash in Coalition—brewing for some time—came when Premier Johnson demanded the resignation of Finance Minister Herbert Anscomb, the Tory leader, for a "flagrant and arrogant disregard of the procedure of constitutional government."

He asserted Anscomb had released results of new tax agreement dealings with Ottawa before consulting the rest of the cabinet.

The Conservative leader and his three cabinet colleagues, Works Minister E. C. Carson, Mines Minister MacDonald and Trade Minister Leslie H. Eyres resigned two hours later.

Anscomb announced that all Conservative members within the Coalition (there are 11 all told) will go into Opposition in the Legislature.

Then he accused the Premier of breaking Coalition on a flimsy pretext and demanded an immediate election.

Anscomb said the Premier has no mandate to carry on as a Liberal government since the government was elected in 1949 as a Coalition.

The sudden break-up in the Coalition came when the regular Friday cabinet meeting assembled this morning.

After the Premier's dramatic demand, Anscomb and his three Conservative colleagues went into conference and two hours later the Coalition cabinet had split.

Premier Johnson's reaction to the Conservative decision was awaited this afternoon.

It is expected he will form a straight Liberal government by naming four Liberals to the cabinet posts vacated by the Conservatives.

The Legislature has been called for February 19. There is not time to hold an election before then, so it is expected he will meet the House as a Liberal government, hold a short session to vote supply to carry on the country, then hold the election.

Present standing of the parties is: Liberal 23, Conservatives 11, C.C.F. 8, Coalitionists 3, Independents 1, Labor 1, Social Credit 1. This gives Johnson a bare majority if the three Coalitionists support him.

Dropped Like Bombshell

Announcement from the Premier's office that he had "fired" the finance minister dropped like a bombshell on the Legislative Buildings, although it had been rumored for several days he was unhappy with the hurried announcement by Anscomb on the tax agreement.

In a 1,200 word statement, the Premier charged Anscomb with a "long series of political reprehensible actions" and with continually "baiting" Liberal colleagues in the cabinet over the last three years.

The Premier said Anscomb's last action had "strained my patience to the breaking point."

He asserted that the finance minister "I fear, is not familiar with his obligations as a minister of the Crown under our form of constitutional government."

He has continually made statements, he said, in which he seemed to have desired to express his disapproval of government policy while still remaining within the government.

The Premier made particular reference to Anscomb's budget speech last year when, at the last moment, he inserted a reference on hospital insurance which was an indirect criticism of Health and Welfare Minister A. D. Turnbull who directs the plan.

"I have no wish to create any instability in our economic and other affairs, but the action of the minister of finance in giving to the press the results of negotiations at Ottawa before he had advised and consulted with his colleagues in the cabinet constitute such a flagrant and arrogant disregard of the procedure of constitutional government that I had no other alternative."

The Premier's announcement to the cabinet was reported to have created a dramatic scene, although there had been rumors at the Legislative Buildings he was unhappy with the finance minister's action.

All members of the cabinet who are in the province had been advised to be present. The only absentee was Attorney-General Gordon Wismer. He is in London on holiday, but is reported flying home this week-end.

The cabinet meeting lasted only five minutes. Then Anscomb went to his own office with Works Minister E. C. Carson, Mines Minister R. C. MacDonald and Trade and Industries Minister Leslie H. Eyres, the other Conservatives in the cabinet.

B.C. Wine Ban Said Violation

VANCOUVER, Jan. 18 (CP)—James Sinclair, Liberal member of Parliament, said here British Columbia's ban on United States wines morally violates an international trade agreement.

The parliamentary assistant to the minister of finance and M.P. for Coast Capilano was referring to the general agreement of tariffs and trade signed by Canada and 33 other nations over the last five years.

The B.C. Liquor Control Board bans the sale of American wines in the province.

U.S. Agrees To Sell Steel

WASHINGTON, Jan. 18—(UP)—The United States has agreed to sell 1,000,000 long tons of steel to Britain during 1952, the White House announced today.

In return, the United Kingdom agreed to sell 55,000,000 pounds of aluminum and 20,000 long tons of tin to the United States.

The aluminum would come from Canada, the tin from Malaysia.

The agreement resulted from conferences between British Prime Minister Winston Churchill and President Truman.

ON THE TIMES

By ART STOTT

I HAVEN'T BEEN to a psychiatrist yet, but I find my day-dream life is falling into a definite pattern. Me and Walter Mitty, we're stylized.

One of my imaginative routines places me in the midst of a crisis. I move in quietly, solve the problem, bow modestly and retire.

Maybe my condition isn't so uncommon. Probably everybody hankers to be the man of the hour at some time or other—and it happens so often in the movies.

Once in a long time, it happens in life, too. Out at our community group meeting the other night, the membership was going through its routine business and clearing the decks for the guest speaker who should have started his address at 8.45.

Probably nobody noticed it, but one of the members wasn't happy. He was walking up and down the corridor outside the meeting room gnawing his fingernails down to the first knuckle joint. Inside, the crowd was waiting to hear a distinguished speaker talk on a popular subject. Outside, the corridor-pacer had just learned that the distinguished speaker wasn't coming, had forgotten the engagement, and the corridor-pacer was responsible for the program.

Stott

It Had Happened Before

The guy in the corridor knew things like that had happened before. He remembered an important political meeting in Victoria to which the candidate had rushed to make an impressive appeal to party stalwarts.

He pictured the scene all over again—the crowded hall, the breathless candidate composing himself for the oration. He remembered the confident gesture with which the candidate had reached into his breast pocket for his notes. He recalled the queer, sickly expression that appeared on the man's face as he scanned a few slips of paper, and his strangled explanation to the chairman, "I've picked up the laundry list instead of my speech."

The corridor-pacer's mind flashed back to the story of a B.C. Historical Society meeting, dignified and correct. He pictured the formal introduction of the guest speaker, punctilious and elaborate. He saw the speaker rise, his smile dying grimly as he patted pocket after pocket without producing a manuscript. He heard again the explanation: "I've left my address on the piano at home" and the startled echo from the chairman as he turned to the meeting with the uncomprehending and amazed statement: "He's left his address on the piano at home."

The guy in the corridor wondered why those incidents had seemed so hilariously funny at the time. He wondered how he'd ever worked himself into an even comparable position. And he thought, a bit ruefully, that the program chairman on each of those two occasions had at least produced a body if not a speech.

Hero Or Heel?

He began to wonder what Walter Mitty would do, confronted by a crisis like his. Undecided whether he should try to give a speech himself or just give himself up like a criminal, he glanced into the meeting room.

There, in the audience, quietly waiting for the address of the evening, sat Dr. Clifford Carl of the Museum—Cliff Carl who gives grand talks to dozens of organizations every year; Cliff Carl, who always has a speech on tap, and a good one at that.

Now the guy in the corridor does his fair share of Mittying—he can meet any crisis he creates in his day-dreams. It's only when they move out of the day-dreams and become real that he worries. Looking at Cliff in the meeting, the guy in the corridor saw the glimmerings of a solution to his problem. He explained it to Cliff and Cliff saw it, too.

With hardly any hitch at all our community group finished up its meeting with an excellent address by a distinguished speaker—a man called Carl.

Which goes to show that you can walk fearlessly up to all sorts of crises, like Walter Mitty, and beat them, provided you have somebody like Cliff Carl beside you.

Still Riding Out Gales

Old salts on Victoria's waterfront have many a nostalgic memory of the last of the four-masted barques, the German windjammer Pamir, which rode out yet another gale in the North Sea yesterday.

This remarkable photograph was taken many years ago by Hugo Frith, F.R.P.S., just after Pamir cast off her tow outside the Strait of Juan De Fuca. Pamir was last in Victoria waters in July, 1946.

Pamir Rides Out Dangerous Gale

DEL, Eng., Jan. 18 (AP)—The four-master German bark Pamir, one of the last of the big sea-going windjammers, today rode out a North Sea gale which had sent lifeboats scudding to her rescue.

The four-masted vessel with 45 sea cadets—40 Germans, four Britons and one Italian—and 46 crew members aboard had radioed an urgent call for help after heavy seas pounded off one of her anchors.

Later she messaged the weather had moderated and she was able to resume her voyage without help.

Lifeboats from two English Channel ports battled through a blizzard to the scene 20 miles off shore. The 5,556-ton British steamer Empire Packston had stood by to help if needed.

The lifeboats began their rugged trip after Capt. Paul Grief radioed he thought the young cadets should be taken off his buffeted ship at once. With rescuers standing by, he decided to keep everyone aboard and finally was able to go on his way.

The picturesque 2,769-ton sailing ship, built at Hamburg in 1905, left Hamburg for Rio De Janeiro on Jan. 10 with a cargo of 4,000 tons of cement. The boys aboard her are training for the merchant marine.

Athabaskan Takes Part In Shore Fire

SEOUL, Korea, Jan. 18 (AP)—Jet planes fought over north-west Korea today for the fourth successive day.

United States Sabre jets screening Thunderjet strikes against Red rail lines and supplies fought briefly with elements of a formation of 120 Communist jets.

One flight of four Mig-15s broke through the screening Sabres and made a firing pass at the Thunderjets, then headed for home. No damage was reported.

The air force reported three Migs downed and seven damaged in the previous three days' fights. Allied losses are reported only weekly.

Action along the frozen 145-mile ground front followed the quiet pattern of the last two months.

The only fighting Friday morning reported by the U.S. Eighth Army was along the eastern front. An Allied patrol fought with entrenched Communists west of Heartbreak Ridge for an hour and a half before withdrawing.

At the extreme eastern end of the line three small Red probes were beaten back south of Kosong.

More than 180 miles north of the 38th Parallel the U.S. destroyers Doyle and Porterfield and the Canadian destroyer Athabaskan touched off big fires near Songjin. The Athabaskan moved so close inshore sailors on her decks raked a building with rifles and machine-guns.

Duplessis

LAW—In Quebec Premier Duplessis announced Thursday night the government will present legislation primarily intended to forestall any possibility that a former member of Parliament, convicted under the Official Secrets Act, could run as a candidate in coming Quebec provincial elections.

The Premier made the announcement when the Legislative Assembly adjourned lengthy and sometimes lively debate of the government's budget estimates.

The Premier referred to "Rose" when he announced the law. Presumably, he was talking of Fred Rose, former federal member of Parliament for Montreal-St. Louis, who was sentenced to a six-year term for giving information to a Russian spy ring operating in Canada.

OFFER?—The London Daily Telegraph today says that the Commonwealth finance ministers at present meeting in London are "almost certain to conclude their deliberations with a firm recommendation favoring establishment of a permanent high-level committee to co-ordinate sterling-area economic policy."

The paper suggests the chairmanship of such a body may be offered to Graham Towers, governor of the Bank of Canada.

Others mentioned as possible chairmen are Sir John Anderson, former chancellor of the exchequer, who was created a Viscount in the New Year's honors list, and Sir Frederick Leith-Ross, chief economic adviser to the British government from 1932 to 1946.

DEFENCELESS—In Walburg, Wash., the fast break of the prison orphans basketball team got out of control again on Thursday night. It broke a man into the clear—too clear.

Mervin George Norgard, a substitute for the Washington

State Prison team, which was playing Walburg in a Walla Walla city league game, disappeared before the team started home from a 71-65 loss.

Sheriff's officers have spread a zone defense over Walla Walla County featuring running guards. But late Thursday night they had not located the escapee.

The team lost a player the same way last season, but he later returned voluntarily.

CONFIDENT—In Washington Senator Styles Bridges, the Republican floor leader, said today he was confident the Senate would vote against Ambassador Philip Jessup as a United Nations delegate if the issue could be brought to the floor.

Bridges launched a new attack on Jessup in a Senate speech late Thursday after Andre Vishinsky, the Soviet foreign minister, had expressed "sympathy" with Jessup because of Republican denunciations of him.

ADVANTAGE—Canada's top soldier headed for Korea today to inspect Canadian troops and get a first-hand look at the way the war is going.

Lieutenant-General Guy Simonds, chief of the army staff, told reporters as he passed through Vancouver Thursday night that he did not think much of the cease-fire talks and believed the Communists planned another major march in the Far East.

"There is every indication that the Communists are planning greater aggression in southeast Asia," Simonds said without elaborating.

Frankly skeptical of the long-drawn-out cease-fire talks, he said that "the enemy has gained every advantage" at Panmunjom.

"I can't see where anything very constructive has come out of the cease-fire talks so far," he said. "The Communists have reaped a considerable advantage."

Winnie Gets Information On Air Power

British Premier Visits U.S. Centre
By ELTON C. FAY

WASHINGTON, Jan. 18 (AP)—Prime Minister Churchill was taken deep within the secret recesses of the Pentagon today, for a first hand look at the U.S. Air Force's command post.

The command post is the nerve centre of the world operations of the air force, and into it filters any air alert. The highly-secret operation, with its own communications system, is manned 24 hours a day.

Churchill's visit could be significant in view of his statement to Congress Thursday that it is "our" agreed course of action to take "prompt, resolute and effective" steps against any violation of the proposed Korean truce.

His statement was generally accepted as referring to the proposal of the U.S. that any truce would be bulwarked by an amplified ultimatum that Red China would be bombed and blockaded if the Communists launch a new aggression in Korea.

The Churchill visit to the command post—his first peek at it—could give him an intimate picture of American air power, and how it may be directed.

Gen. Hoyt S. Vandenberg, Chief of Staff of the Air Force, was with Churchill, presumably for a briefing. Also present was Secretary of Defense Robert Lovett.

The visit followed a Churchill-Lovett conference of an hour and 15 minutes in Lovett's office.

More Arrests In Vancouver Drug Roundup

VANCOUVER, Jan. 18 (CP)—Three new arrests today brought to 33 the number of suspects rounded up in the biggest drive in city history—against "pushers," salesmen of narcotics.

The all-out war against the drug peddlers—an R.C.M.P. spokesman said an estimated 80 per cent of the local distribution set-up already has been smashed—started Thursday. And still more arrests were anticipated.

The joint R.C.M.P.-city police drive follows months of dangerous undercover work.

Cpl. Harold Price, head of the R.C.M.P. narcotics squad, said a member of the force spent 2½ months mingling with the underworld, gathering evidence for the big crackdown.

The lightning raids caught the suspects by surprise. One squad hit the jackpot, arresting 14 persons in one sweep.

The suspects include several women, police said.

Reds' Lose Rights In West Germany

BONN, Germany, Jan. 18 (Reuters)—Communists in the West German Parliament Wednesday lost their right to present motions and be represented on committees.

The party, with 14 representatives in the Bundestag, had previously been recognized as an official fraction group—having more than the required strength for official fraction parties Wednesday was raised from 10 to 15, leaving the Communists one short.

Rum stories...

"To train the shark was not so simple as you may think," said the boss.

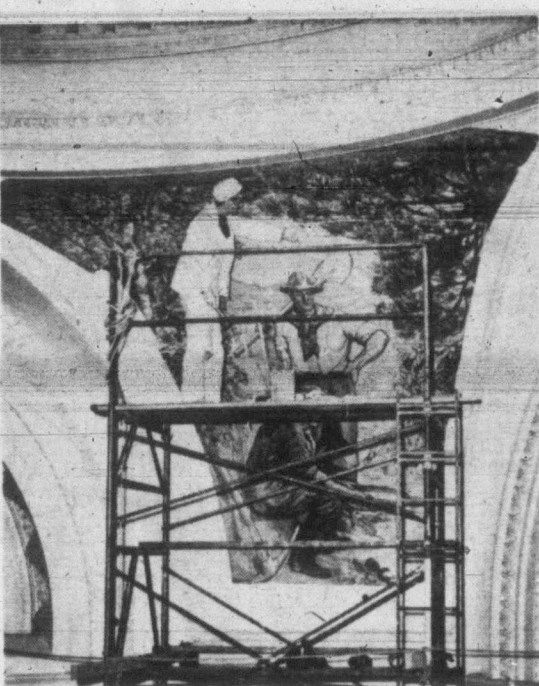

"Fortunately, the brig when she grounded was loaded to the marks with Lamb's Navy Rum. By judiciously rewarding my finny friend with dark invigorating tots, I so influenced his mind that he would give me the better fish such as turbot, retaining for himself only inferior qualities like cod. A trivial point, perhaps, but I thought good for discipline. I was about to send him to bring me a wife from among the girls bathing in a distant lagoon, when suddenly I sighted a sail. Instantly mounting the shark I went alongside and pausing only to present him with the corkscrew, climbed aboard."

"That's a Rum Story," said the wedding guest incautiously.

"Very kind of you, I'm sure, sir," replied the mariner. "I could just fancy a Lamb's Navy Rum."

Ridgway Pays Surprise Visit To Truce Team

MUNSAN, Korea, Jan. 18 (AP)—Truce negotiators kept tempers in check today as they wrangled fruitlessly over terms of a Korean armistice. The only outburst came from a Chinese delegate who referred to America's allies as "running dogs."

Maj. Gen. Claude Erenbaugh made his daily plea that the Reds promise not to build airfields in North Korea during a truce.

The Communists replied, as usual, that their pledge not to send combat planes across the Yalu during a truce was sufficient guarantee.

In an adjoining tent, Rear Admiral R. E. Libby tried vainly to get Red negotiators to accept voluntary repatriation of war prisoners.

Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway, supreme Allied commander, paid a surprise visit to Korea Friday to confer with the United Nations truce delegation and the Eighth Army commander, Gen. James A. Van Fleet.

U.N. investigators made another trip to the protected Kaesong area to examine a crater. The Reds say it was made by an Allied aerial bomb Thursday.

The Communists' Peiping radio said preliminary investigation established "full responsibility" of the Allies. The broadcast, monitored in Tokyo, said American planes attacked in full daylight under clear skies.

Kaesong is headquarters for the Red truce delegation, and is designated immune from attack.

D. E. C. Anderson Heads Young Grits

Donald E. C. Anderson, lawyer, was elected Thursday night president of the Victoria County Young Liberal Association.

He defeated legal colleague H. K. "Pat" Bate.

Before the election, James J. Proudfoot, B.C. president of Young Liberals, asked both candidates to take the job seriously and not to make the president's post a platform for speeches that would get their names in the papers.

He said there had been too much of that in the past. He asked that the new president consult the executive of the senior Liberal Association before making any press statements.

Proudfoot said it was more important now than ever to strive for party unity.

Anderson promised he would oppose any "splinter groups" within the association.

Principal speaker at the meeting was Arthur Ash, M.L.A. for Saanich, who told the meeting the next provincial election would come very soon and that already he was meeting Progressive-Conservative opposition in his riding.

Ronald Grant was elected vice-president of the association; Mrs. Agnes Anderson, secretary; and Clyde Elford, treasurer.

Posted to the executive were Cathy Shaw, H. K. Bate, J. J. Proudfoot, D. Sloan, D. Smyth, Bernard Shaw and Brian O'Halloran.

Smyth and Proudfoot were named as well to serve on the central executive.

Germans Will Seek Huge U.S. Loan To Build Army

BONN, Germany, Jan. 18 (AP)—The West German government plans to ask the United States for a big loan—probably several hundred million dollars—to help put German troops into the field with the proposed European army, Allied officials said today.

A formal request for the loan will be submitted to Washington when a "peace contract" now under negotiation, is signed with the three western occupation powers—France, Britain and the United States—next spring, the officials said.

This "peace contract" will start German rearming inside the proposed unified European defense force and will return to them almost full control of their own affairs.

The Allied officials gave this picture of the loan request shaping up:

The Germans will contend they alone cannot finance formation of a new armed force from scratch after seven years of Allied demilitarization programs.

In addition, the Germans expect the United States to provide the bulk of military equipment—including tanks, artillery and planes needed by 12 divisions plus the tactical air force they plan to organize.

WANT REDUCTION
In "peace contract" talks, the Germans already have agreed to continue to pay part of the cost of keeping Allied occupation troops in Germany as a defense force. The exact sum has not been agreed on but the Germans want a substantial reduction in present occupation payments.

They now pay $1,500,000,000 a year—$480,000,000 to Britain, $352,000,000 to France and $668,000,000 to the United States.

Allied and German military planners estimate it will cost about $5,750,000,000 to equip 12 German divisions. The cost will be spread over 12 to 24 months, depending on how fast the Germans can muster men and prepare training facilities.

Peace And Blackmail

RUSSIA'S LATEST COMBINATION of peace and blackmail now appears. In Europe it proposes a conference to re-establish trade between east and west—a gesture of peace. In Asia it threatens to invade Indo-China by the usual method of proxy—a gesture of blackmail.

Whether a push into southeast Asia would be halted if the free world agreed to negotiate on trade is not clear. Both projects, though contradictory, may be set in train at once to test the West's reaction and then the one most likely to succeed will be followed. This is a favorite Russian method, the search for a weak spot.

Either way great difficulties will confront the free world. If Europe decides to reopen the old trade channels with Russia the economic pressures will be relieved. The greatest single factor strangling the European economy is the refusal of Russia to sell its raw materials in exchange for the western nations' manufactures. But if they are to depend on trade with Russia they will be at the mercy of any change in Russian policy, their heads will be in an economic noose and they will be encouraged to relax their armament while Russia seems friendly.

If Russia's political intentions could be trusted its policy of reopening trade would be welcomed as the most hopeful development of recent times. But those intentions are not trusted and the American government sees in the new trade policy only a trap to capture and destroy the North Atlantic defense system.

The threatened communist drive into Indo-China is a still more serious business.

In Korea, the United States, supported by the United Nations, has been able so far to achieve only a stalemate on the original boundary. There is no assurance that the United Nations would agree to undertake a similar campaign in Indo-China or that the United States would agree to lead it. Yet in some ways Indo-China is far more important to the free world than Korea. All of Korea could be lost without the loss of any valuable economic resources. If Indo-China were lost communism would be on the edge of the free world's main supplies of tin and natural rubber. Their loss, in turn, would be a disaster of first magnitude and if Russia could acquire them without a world war it would achieve one of its major triumphs.

Yet it is doubtful that the United States, the only power strong enough to conduct it, is ready for another Korea, and another Korea, if undertaken, would divert the energies of the west from Europe, as Russia no doubt hopes.

There remains the alternative of air attack on China if it signs a truce in Korea and then turns its arms southward. But attack on China, as long urged by General MacArthur, could lead to the great Asiatic war which the Truman government so far has managed to avoid and which its allies dread.

The spring should show the direction of the next Russian move, which may not yet be decided in the Kremlin. The only thing we can be sure of is that a move of some sort will come this year either by gestures of peace or another military push, short of general war. One way or another it will be a difficult year for the west, especially when their election campaign distracts the American people from the real target.

Spotlight On Buttle

TODAY THE BUTTLE LAKE QUESTION again came into public view, revealed in the light of an appeal against the decision of the provincial water controller granting the B.C. Power Commission's application to use the jewel of Strathcona Park for hydro-electric water storage purposes.

This is but one more appearance of the issue which drew public attention when the power commission made its application and which will again be up for review in the Legislature, on the assurance of Premier Johnson.

The appeal is a legal step in a continuing process. It has certain overtones of unconscious Gilbert-and-Sullivanism in the role which Lands and Forests Minister E. T. Kenney must play in it. That role, in which he becomes several persons, has not been sought by the minister. Rather has it been thrust upon him by technicalities of the appeal.

There is little likelihood that the appeal will put a formal end to the Buttle controversy. Yet a very material service may be performed by it.

When E. H. Tredecroft, water controller, delivered his decision, the pertinent part of his public statement said that the power commission had shown good and sufficient reasons for the storage of water in Buttle Lake and that the proposed storage was in the public interest.

A much fuller explanation is required

if the public is to be convinced that the conservationists who opposed damming the lake were in error.

The conservationists argued that the Power Commission had failed to prove that use of Upper Campbell Lake was not feasible as an alternative storage basin. Those opposed to a dam on Buttle Lake challenged the cost estimates of the commission on the two projects.

In the public mind, those questions are still unanswered. They deserve answers. Buttle Lake, as a scenic treasure of Strathcona Park, belongs to the public. Conservationists have argued that it will be destroyed scenically and recreationally by damming.

It is not argued that Vancouver Island does not need power. Present and foreseeable demands indicate it requires all the hydro-electric development it can get.

The question, in simple terms is this: Is the use of Buttle Lake rather than Upper Campbell unavoidable economically or physically? If the answer depends entirely on costs, then definite and unquestionable estimates, backed by findings of competent surveys, should disclose those costs.

No doubts should be left in the public mind on that score. If the present appeal removes grounds for doubt, it will have accomplished an invaluable purpose.

It Is Not Found Money

ALTHOUGH RISING COSTS MAY have swallowed the benefits of the new federal grant to the University of British Columbia, the significance of Parliament's decision making funds available to such institutions will not be lost on educationists.

How much they were needed is indicated by the fact that, as far as U.B.C. is concerned, sums equivalent to them had already been committed before the grants were made.

There are sound arguments to support federal contributions toward the cost of university education. In the first instance, graduates remaining in Canada—a part of it—should be a national asset as the result of their training. A competent medical man from McGill, for instance, may be the product of a Montreal university, but when he practices in British Columbia, his talents, developed elsewhere, are of immediate value to British Columbians.

In the fields of research, the work of university-trained scientists is at least national in its scope. If Canada is to benefit from the products of the universities, it is reasonable to expect Canada to pay part of the costs.

It would be a mistake, however, to consider the federal grants as found money. They still come from the same pocket, as that which provided funds heretofore. The federal government can spend only what it collects from the people of Canada. British Columbians are no further ahead if they are taxed an extra dollar by Ottawa to provide an extra dollar through a federal grant to their university.

On the other hand, the rich provinces obviously must provide more proportionately than the poorer ones. If the federal grants are to be distributed equitably, then it is natural to assume that the more wealthy provinces will contribute more to the general pot than they will take out of it for universities. British Columbia is one of the richer provinces.

With due recognition of the special claims universities have for federal consideration, that is a fundamental educational finance which cannot be ignored. Specific assurances have been given that the grants do not preclude Ottawa's entry into the educational realm, other than along financial avenues. The provinces retain their exclusive jurisdiction in this field.

By the same token the provinces do not escape their financial responsibilities toward universities. The grants from Ottawa are supplements. No advantages would accrue to the universities were the provinces to reduce their own payments proportionately.

Why Can't The Public Be Told?

WHEN JOHN SHERSTIBITOFF, SO-called "official bomber" for the Sons of Freedom, was tried in Nelson and convicted on six counts of arson, the nature of his crimes was considered serious enough to merit a 14 years sentence. Last week the public of British Columbia was informed that John Sherstibitoff would be released from prison and exiled from the province after serving 18 months of that term.

Only one of the qualifications of his release has been made public. He must stay outside British Columbia. What the other terms may be is known to a very few men.

There may be excellent reasons for the early release of Sherstibitoff. They may justify the shortness to which his term in prison has been contracted. It may be assumed that unusual action has been taken to meet an unusual situation. It may be argued, too, that his release and exile have been authorized as a move in the interests of the country. Unfortunately, however, no explanation has been given to the public. The layman can only note that the so-called "official bomber" of the Sons of Freedom has been treated in a manner quite uncommon among ordinary prisoners. The layman naturally wonders why.

That query does not reflect any lack of public confidence in the consultative committee on Doukhobor problems, which is presumed to have approved the course that has been taken. But failure to provide an explanation may raise doubts over the confidence that committee and others connected with the release of the prisoner have in the public.

Surely an explanation is necessary. British Columbians are tired of the Doukhobor trouble, that has plagued them for years. They hope the special committee appointed to study the question and find a remedy for the problem will be successful. But if they are kept in the dark, inevitably they will revive the cynical chant heard a few years ago—"No wonder they're called Sons of Freedom."

LOOSE ENDS

Concerning Wives

By BRUCE HUTCHISON

UP TO NOW, in my ignorance I had supposed that a wife was a woman. After reading a study of this subject in "Life" I perceive that a wife is something else entirely. If she is to amount to anything at all she must be an executive, a salesman, a sycophant, a conspirator, a politician and a professional liar. That, we are told, is the only kind of wife who can help her husband to get along. Without this equipment in the home no young man can hope to succeed in business.

IT USED to be sufficient for an executive to own a house, an automobile, an insurance policy and a train. Today, it seems, he also needs a horror in the house.

The researchers of "Life" have stumbled upon one of the nastiest facts of American business yet revealed. American business, not content with building the highest living standard ever known, has reached out to engulf the American wife and make her a cog in the great machine. The well-managed corporation no longer hires an executive because he knows his job. Unless he has the right wife he is passed by in favor of some other fellow who has.

THAT makes marriage a pretty important affair. In entering it the young man risks not merely a lifetime of domestic unhappiness but, infinitely worse, the possibility of never being an executive, and who wants to live at all if he is not an executive?

Any father who looks at his son in the cradle and can detect no executive instincts in the infantile features will mercifully drown the baby forthwith. But even if the child passes the test still he cannot be sure of success for he may marry a non-executive wife and spoil everything.

Hence the great corporations worry continually about the women their junior executives are marrying. The president of a ball-bearing plant, who is looking for a promising vice-president does not ask if the candidate can make good ball-bearings. He asks whether the man's wife can make a good martini. The question is not whether the man is honest and able but whether the wife, as "Life" puts it, is "a highly adaptable mixer," matrimony thus being elevated to the status of soda water and ginger ale.

ALL THIS, however, is only the beginning of the executive process. A wife must be not merely a good hostess who will not humiliate the corporation by eating with her knife and getting tight at office parties; she must have a proper sense of her position in the hierarchy. She must be deferential to the wife in the salary bracket above her and just sufficiently condescending to the one below. She must be able to move upward into the next bracket, leave all her old friends and associates behind without regret, and be ready to continue this indefinitely until her husband is president of the firm, at which point they will both be ready to die and glad of it.

BESIDE the pretensions, manipulations and throat-cuttings of the executive profession, as explained by "Life," the familiar struggles of politics are the crude efforts of amateurs. And while American business men are never tired of blaming politicians for building a service, government-controlled and regimented society it is clear that the executives are busily converting America into a high-class ant hill.

The ultimate end of this insect process is reached when the ruling ants are chosen not for their abilities but for the behavior of their mates. One of these days, no doubt, a business genius will appear and do the obvious thing by handing the corporation over to the wives, who obviously are much abler, and relegating the husbands to the kitchen where they belong.

ODDLY enough, the men who made American business the most efficient in the world could never qualify for the new standards. No one seems to have asked about Henry Ford's wife when he was quietly revolutionizing the whole system. Nobody thought to check up on Mrs. Rockefeller. Mrs. Edison was left alone while her husband changed the life of the world.

But then, such men were never true executives. By all the modern tests they were complete failures. They refused to conform to the conventions, they were never quite sure what income bracket they belonged to, they were an inferior sort of ant altogether, and if any inspector from head office came snooping around their homes to inspect their wives they would have hit him on the nose as any decent man should.

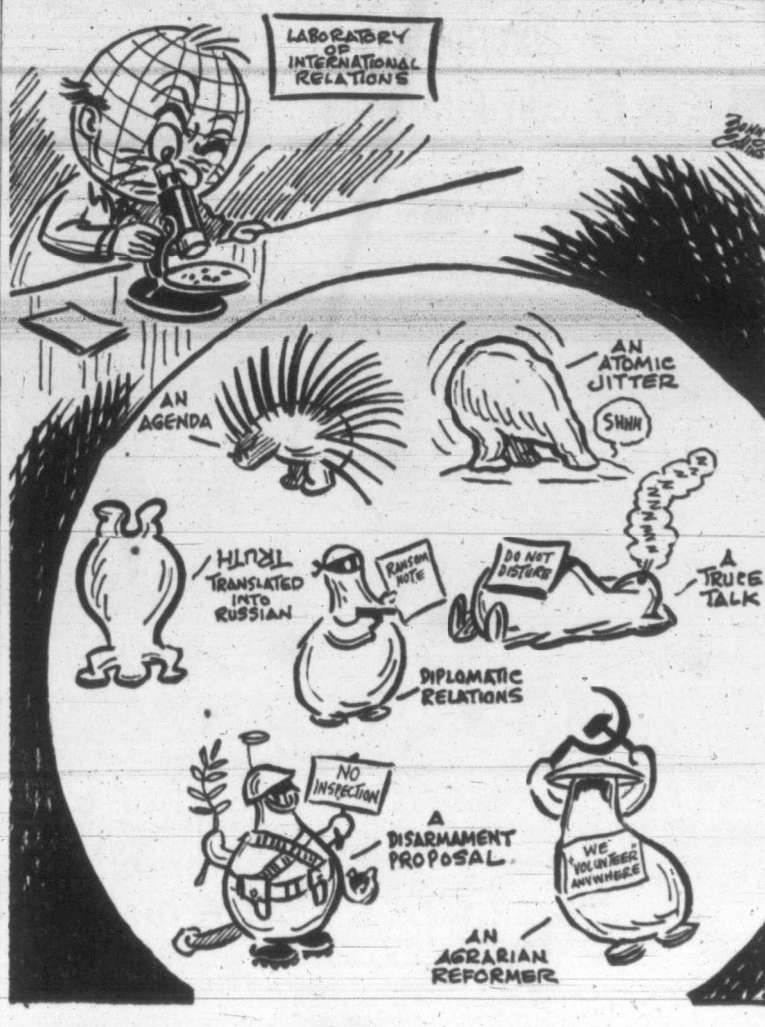

IT WILL be interesting, therefore, to see whether American business fares any better under the new system of machine-made, trade-marked, hundred-percent pure executives than under the old-fashioned anarchists who made the machines in the first place. No doubt business, as business, will do very well but what will happen to society?

The best thing about American society up to now has been its refusal to straitly as older societies have done. Its redeeming virtue, among all its vices, has been its freedom from fixed castes. Now it appears to be erecting its first aristocracy, called the executives, with many gradations extending all the way to the kitchen sink.

THE FRIENDS of American democracy need not imagine that, under a local disguise, it is imitating communism by establishing an hereditary ruling and privileged class. In Russia, I suppose, a commissar is a formidable figure since he has the machine gun squad behind him but no one takes an American executive seriously even when he has a wife behind him.

In fact, no one who knows America believes in the existence of an executive. After long study I am convinced that there is no such animal. There are just some unfortunate fellows running businesses in which the hired hands are having all the fun and marrying any woman they like, and repeatedly.

Cold War Germs

Under Our Roof

By JOHN RHODES STURDY

IT WAS Hamish who suggested that we give a bachelor dinner for Col. S. Skeffington-Smuts (Ret.) whose forthcoming marriage to Anastasia Wiggs Wiggs has not caused any stir in the social columns.

as far as I know, but is certainly of some consequence under our roof. The main point seems to be that, when the Colonel marries Anastasia, there will be a vacant room in the house, in which the Colonel intends to set up his brother, Percy Skeffington-Smuts, who appears to be a D.P. from Baluchistan or some such place.

Technically speaking, it is my house, but long ago I gave up any idea I might have had of running it my way. All I can do is sit and scowl viciously while the Colonel and Anastasia and Hamish and Little Augie live my life for me. "We don't have any wine," I told Hamish. "You can't have a bachelor dinner without wine." (As a matter of fact, I could have added that no bachelor dinner is really complete without dancing girls. But we live on an island, and you can't have everything.)

"I will look after that," announced Little Augie. "Don't be silly, Little Augie," I said sharply. "Hamish wants to hold the dinner tomorrow night. It takes months, even years, to make wine. So don't be silly."

Little Augie's lower lip began to quiver. Suddenly he put his hands up to his face and rushed out into the kitchen.

"You've hurt his feelings again," Hamish admonished me. "That's the trouble with having a sensitive blind pig king in the house. You never know when he's going to burst into tears. So of course I had to go into the kitchen and hold Little Augie's hand and tell him I was sorry and that he could make all the wine he liked."

It was quite a dinner, I must say. We dined at a polished table with candles on the sideboard, and the Colonel wore his full regimentals and I got into my old uniform (unfortunately I couldn't button the jacket for some reason) and we ate hot curry and rice, which is the Colonel's favorite dish—in fact, his only dish, except for bloaters.

Then we cleared the table and Little Augie brought in the decanter of wine and we passed it around from one hand to the other and filled our glasses to the brim.

We all stood while I proposed a toast. It was really a colorful scene. We drained our glasses without taking them from our lips, turned as one man towards the fireplace and prepared to send the goblets crashing into the fire.

At first there was a feeling of paralysis. It lasted only a second, I think, and then I suddenly realized that I had not thrown my wine glass. I tried to do it then, but discovered, with some slight surprise, that I was holding a daffodil in my hand instead.

I looked towards the Colonel and was rather astonished to see that he had changed out of his uniform and was now wearing a ballet dress and tights. In fact, we were all dressed for the ballet and even at that moment Little Augie was executing a magnificent pas de deux over in the corner. Somewhere an orchestra was playing.

"Shall we dance?" I asked the Colonel. "A pleasure," said the Colonel, and away we whirled around the room. And we never once touched the floor. Hamish and Little Augie had joined partners, and together now we all danced through the wall and out into the woods, leaping and running like fawns at play.

"And then what happened?" I asked my wife. I was in bed. The doctor had just left, taking the stomach pump with him.

"Well," said my wife, "I walked into the dining-room and there you were, the four of you, standing by the table as rigid as stone, holding empty glasses in your hands. I touched your arm and you just keeled over, without moving a muscle, and fell flat on your face. The jar must have started a chain reaction because suddenly the rest of them were toppling over like ninepins, too." She added, "It was the first time," she added, "that I've ever seen rigor mortis set in before death."

Well, at least Little Augie was a victim of his own foul wink. It took days to unstiffen him.

This Is It

Christian Science Monitor

The conclusion is inescapable that the revival of an expanding British economy depends on a degree of national courage, unity, and willingness to accept sacrifice equal to that which Mr. Churchill summoned for the Battle of Britain when Hitler's bombers were a daily and terrifying goad. Can Mr. Churchill do the same without the aid of such a terrible goad?

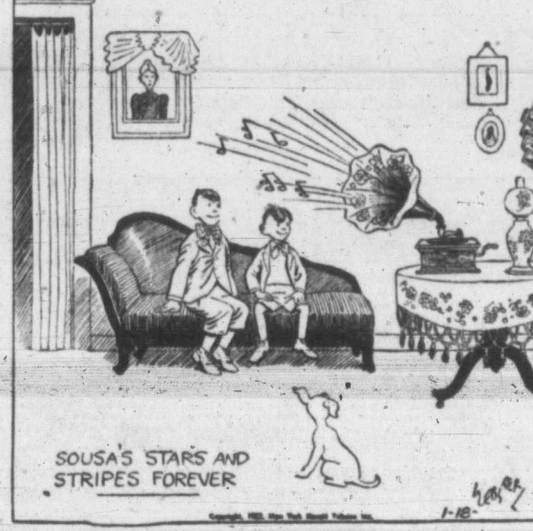

Perhaps he can. One feels like saying that he must, because if the task is not accomplished Europe falls out of balance and its future must be shaped either by Russia or Germany.

But the effort required would have to be well-nigh superhuman. If Mr. Churchill can do it he will have achieved something more difficult than the defense of Britain against the Luftwaffe. This is the real test of Britain's ability to survive as a great and leading nation. This is the real crisis. This is it.

Three Answers

To Mr. Ash

AMUSINGLY, the honorable M.L.A. for Saanich in a letter to the Times Lake, Strathcona Park, wrote: "The time has come when those in responsible positions should acquaint the public with the facts—the writer cordially agrees."

The Comptroller of Water Rights, whose decision Mr. Ash supports has declined to give any clear "facts" as to why he granted the application of the B.C. Power Commission to utilize Buttle Lake.

Furthermore, the B.C. Power Commission, which is a public body maintained by the public purse, refused to disclose their rate structure at the public inquiry held last August—a very important "fact" to every taxpayer.

If the case of the Power Commission is sound, and Mr. Ash claims it is, why keep these essential "facts" secret?

Generously, the honorable M.L.A. proceeded in his letter to give some "facts" which would read very favorably for the Power Commission if they were correct. Mr. Ash contends that the cost of damming Buttle Lake would be approximately $2,241,220. But he neglects to disclose in this calculation that no value of compensation is included for Crown Land and the great quantity of valuable timber which would be logged.

Alternatively, the M.L.A. states, the cost of construction at Upper Campbell Lake would be around $5,803,465, an impressive sum indeed until it is broken down. Mr. Ash failed to show in his letter that of this amount the sum of $2,667,000 is proposed to be paid in the form of compensation. Therefore, if fairly presented the respective costs of construction do not amount to anywhere near a difference of $3,500,000, as Mr. Ash declares.

QUESTIONS

Mr. Ash, on behalf of his constituents, asks three questions and I take the liberty of answering them:

Q. Is this project to be the greatest good for the greatest number?

A. No. Individually this project will benefit the people of British Columbia very little. If the damming of Buttle Lake takes place it will in law, by precedent, weaken our rights in our public parks and may lead to further encroachments of a similar nature.

Q. Are we prepared to develop industry on this island and encourage more people to settle here?

A. Permit private enterprise to develop industry on this island by all sensible means, with due respect to established rights and the intent and spirit of the original Strathcona Park Act. Encourage the business interests who require the proposed dam to construct it at their own expense and risk, which they are well able to do, at Upper Campbell Lake.

Q. Shall we turn back the clock and stand still to find in later years we have a power shortage?

A. Unless we turn back the clock sometimes and consider the laws which have been passed for the people's good, chaos would soon result. However, turn forward the clock if you wish Mr. Ash and look towards the day when atomic power will supply nearly all our electrical needs. Electricity has already been successfully generated by this method in the U.S.A. and Great Britain. Our province is vast enough for industry to find its place, as it is rapidly doing. But to allow the craze for industrialization to go to our heads and make us oblivious to the heritage we must protect, would be folly.

Fraternal Association

Winnipeg Free Press

Mr. Churchill has often spoken of the "fraternal association" of Britain and the United States as the world's supreme hope of peace. His mission to Washington, which has been rewarded by an answering spirit of co-operation by the leaders of the United States government, has succeeded in reaffirming that policy in practical and constructive terms.

Ups And Downs

By BRIAN TORIN

"OF ALL the awkward questions," said the Elevator Man, "you can be asked, perhaps the awkwardest at times is 'What do you do?' And especially if they tack on the phrase, 'that's of any use to the world?' That can be a tough one to answer. All the activities you engage in—your job, your hobbies, your sports and so on—seem to become pretty selfish when you gauge them on what they do for your fellowman. You begin to think that you're living only for yourself, and maybe you're not far wrong. That's a good starting point, anyway. From then on you can begin to do something about it. Of course, the average man or woman doesn't rate too badly, when all's said and done. A major part of the world's work is done for somebody else. With a family to support, altruism is sort of forced on you. Lower main!"

"I see," said the Elevator Man, "where a questionnaire was sent to state employees in Connecticut asking them what they do. The main point was how much time each spent at his various duties throughout the day. One of the elevator men thought it over for a long time. There didn't seem to be much variety in his job, but he didn't want to look too simple. So finally, according to the news item, he described it: 'Up, 50 per cent. Down, 50 per cent.' Mezzanine!"

"It isn't," said the Elevator Man, "everybody who can be so clear-cut about his life's effort. Some of us aren't sure whether we're going up or down, ahead or sideways. The trouble is, you can have what seems like a pretty adequate job, one that keeps you busy and occupied. But when you come to put it down on paper, making a simple list in black and white of what you do, it begins to look pretty skimpy. 'Sort the mail,' 'file records,' 'count the cash,' 'sweep out the shop'—they take only a second to write down or read. Then the fellow says, 'What do you do next?' and you begin to feel crowded. It's a happy man who can just reply, 'Then I go back up.'"

Theft And Driving Charges Bring Nine To Saanich Court

Nine persons faced Magistrate Henry C. Hall on driving and theft charges in Saanich police court Thursday afternoon.

Ball of $100 was set for Robert Takvor, 75 Ontario, when he was charged with theft of farm equipment valued at less than $25. He pleaded not guilty and was remanded to next Thursday.

Charged with the same offense, Robert J. Deacon, 3101 Pilsbury, pleaded guilty. He was remanded to today to secure character witnesses.

Raymond J. Slater, 4528 East Saanich, got into trouble while driving in an endeavour to avoid a dog running across the road. He appeared on a careless driving charge. Magistrate Hall did not think accused's actions constituted careless driving and dismissed the charge.

Slater was also charged with obtaining credit by means of a worthless cheque. This was also dismissed.

A fine of $50 and a three-month license suspension was imposed against Allan Le Sann, 319 Burnside, for dangerous driving.

Robert B. Robertson, 1065 Colville, went to sleep at the wheel of his moving car. He was fined $40 for careless driving. His license was suspended.

A $35 fine was imposed against Kenneth A. Knightly, 1245 Burnside, for careless driving. Cecilia Peiky, East Saanich Indian Reserve, was fined $30 for driving a car without being the holder of a driver's license.

Robert McCall, 282 Kerwood, was remanded to Jan. 24 for a probation officer's report after he pleaded guilty to breaking into the Craigflower Service Station Dec. 30.

A traffic charge against H. Newman was dismissed.

Toronto Tram Strike Shows No Let-Up

TORONTO, Jan. 18 (CP)—Toronto's street-car and bus strike today entered its third week with no prospect of any early break.

Mayor Allan Lamport planned another effort to persuade members of the Toronto Transportation Commission and Street Railway Employees Union (A.F.L.-T.L.C.) to get together to discuss settlement of the wage dispute that has tied up the publicly-owned transit service of Canada's second-largest city.

Such a meeting ended late on Thursday without any indication that the disputants had modified their stands. The union seeks a 15-cent-an-hour increase to $1.55 in the basic hourly rate and favors mediation. The T.T.C. offers a five-cent increase to $1.45, contends that a greater raise would force up fares from the present three for 25 cents to a straight 10 cents, and is willing to submit the dispute to arbitration but not to mediation.

The union has called a meeting of its 4,700 members for 10 a.m. Sunday in downtown Massey Hall. It will be the first general meeting since union members decided to walk out on three hours' notice—at 5 a.m., Jan. 4.

AS BEST THEY CAN
Meanwhile, the 1,300,000 residents of the Greater Toronto area continue to get along as best they can without a mass transportation service. Car pools, company buses and trucks, trains, hitch-hiking and walking get workers to and from their jobs. The Toronto District Trades and Labor Council (A.F.L.-T.L.C.) Thursday night demanded that the city board of control ask for the resignations of the three T.T.C. commissioners. Mayor Lamport and two other members of the board of control said later they will reject the demand.

In another development Thursday, Bert Sheppard, former member of the union executive, announced he plans to submit a resolution at the Sunday meeting that the dispute be submitted to arbitration. (An arbitrator would make a decision which would be binding on both parties).

BRIGHTER PICTURE

BALTIMORE, Jan. 18 (AP)—Baltimore Transit Company directors Thursday night announced they had a plan they believed would lead to renewed negotiations to settle the strike which has tied up buses and street-cars in Baltimore for eight days. No details were released. The union demand originally was for a 24-cent hourly increase and a number of fringe benefits. The wage demand was scaled down to 15 cents, but president Clayton C. Berry of the Transit Workers' Union (A.F.L.) later said it would go up a cent for every two days the strike is in progress until the 24-cent figure is again reached.

TAFT'S MANAGER WARNS AGAINST GLAMOR, SEX

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 18 (UP)—Sen. Henry Cabot Lodge R-Mass., appealed to the Republican national committee today to help nominate and elect Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower as President because he is the "people's choice."

Only a few hours earlier, David S. Ingalls, campaign manager for Sen. Robert A. Taft of Ohio, told the committee the G.O.P. "is dead" if it risked its political future on "hero worship, glamor or sex appeal."

Lodge, who has been conducting a whirlwind campaign at the national committee meeting in an effort to line up party support for Eisenhower, was the third of four speakers to endorse their respective candidates.

Thursday, Gov. Earl Warren of California and Ingalls had their turns and tonight at a banquet Harold E. Stassen, former Governor of Minnesota, will follow Lodge's luncheon appearance.

Three of the Canso seaplanes are pictured here flying over the Parliament Buildings Thursday.

HOME GARDEN

by Hilda Beasly

While Jack has been busy preparing the garden tools for spring use, and even clearing a piece of ground for early planting, my work has been mainly in the green house.

Among the budding daffodils, and the semi-tropical plants which are now making good growth, is a pleasant place to be on even the duller days.

With limited space under glass, I find it a good place to start much of the window-box material now, and carry most of it along during February and early March in a large lean-to cold frame.

Cuttings of the trailing, and the variegated, ivy-leaved Pelargonium (florist's Geranium), may be taken from large stock plants, and inserted around the edge of a shallow flower pot or pan, filled with sandy soil. Keep fairly dry in a sunny window or other warm spot until rooted. Then pot up into 3-in. pots. Pelargoniums must be kept free from frost.

Cuttings of trailing Lobelia will root nicely if kept at about 55 degrees, then potted and gradually moved to cooler quarters if the warmer space is limited. If no cuttings are available, seed should be sown immediately. Keep the little plants growing steadily, in order to have flowers by the time the rest of the material is ready for planting into the window boxes.

Seed of the dwarf Schizanthus may also be sown now. Since it is a cool weather subject, small flowering plants may be set out in the boxes quite early and will give profuse bloom over a long period. Pricking out the seedlings into 3-in. pots will bring them into bud quickly.

Cuttings of Verbena may be started now, or seed sown. This is a slow growing plant, but will come into flower after the first of the Schizanthus are over, thus extending the length of season during which your boxes (or tubs) need very little care except

Mixed Re-Action In U.K. Press Greet's Churchill

LONDON, Jan. 18 (AP).—Most London morning newspapers today commended Winston Churchill's address to the United States Congress, but Lord Beaverbrook's "Empire-first-and-forever" Daily Express said the Prime Minister should not have asked other nations to station troops in the Suez Canal zone.

That, said the Express, might mean "intolerable" interference in Britain's conduct of operations in the zone.

"Imaginative suggestion" was the description given by the Conservative Daily Telegraph to Churchill's proposal that the United States, France and Turkey—co-sponsors with Britain of the proposed Middle East pact—send at least token forces to support British troops defying Egypt's order that they leave the canal zone.

"Here, as throughout the Middle East, agreement between America and Britain is vitally necessary if the whole area is not to slide through chaos into Communism," the paper declared.

The pro-Labor Daily Herald accused Churchill, in his "we ask no favors, no dole" statement, of saying one thing at home and the opposite abroad. It predicted he would have some explaining to do in the House of Commons.

Said the Daily Herald: "Churchill proclaims Britain's postwar achievements in Washington saying 'production is widening and exports are up by two-thirds. Recovery while it has been retarded, has been continuous.' This is the same Churchill who accused the Labor government, which has been out of office less than three months) of 'very largely paralyzing' British economic revival and who said that under Labor the British are becoming Tired Tims and Weary Willies. Politicians often have to eat their words. But what a banquet of baloney confronts Churchill."

Other British newspaper reaction was favorable.

Would Follow U.S. Leadership

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 18 (AP).—Prime Minister Churchill, in reshaping British policy in critical areas of the world, appears to be fully prepared to follow United States leadership in the Far East while seeking American support for British leadership in the Middle East.

Two new policy developments stood out in the 77-year-old statesman's address to Congress Thursday and both bore on this interpretation of his aims.

With respect to the Far East, Churchill endorsed U.S. protection of the Chinese Nationalist island of Formosa in spite of the fact that the previous Labor government in Britain recognized the Communist regime in China and Churchill has continued to do so.

His endorsement was in line with word from his talks with Mr. Truman last week to the effect that Churchill does not intend to permit his government's technical relationship with the Chinese Reds administration to interfere with his support of the over-all American line of action in the Far East.

While the split between London and Washington over Chinese recognition remains on the books, it has thus been reduced considerably in importance.

For the Middle East, Churchill painted a gloomy picture of Britain's declining power and influence in an area where it once was dominant and made it clear that he would like to be supported by the United States and other countries with Middle Eastern interests.

His proposition apparently took American officials by surprise.

What the response will be remains to be determined.

France's New Premier Youngest In 75 Years

PARIS, Jan. 18 (UP).—Radical Socialist Edgar Faure was approved by the National Assembly today and became the youngest French premier in 75 years. The vote was 401 to 101.

The 43-year-old financial Communist bloc, which voted against him, and the rightwing followers of Gen. Charles De Gaulle, who abstained.

Faure began work immediately to form a government—the 15th in the less than six-year existence of the Fourth Republic. He will have to draw his cabinet from radical Socialists, popular Republicans (M.R.P.) and Independents. Although the Socialists voted for him in today's Assembly vote they probably will not join his government.

The radical Socialist's government is not expected to differ greatly from that of former Premier Rene Pleven's which resigned 12 days ago.

Faure told the Assembly Thursday night that his government, if approved, would continue the war in Indo-China, back the European army project and press for extension of the Schuman plan for pooling Western Europe's coal and steel.

IT'S MY VIEW

By BILL WALKER, Sports Editor

CALGARY (Thursday)—Although this is like locking the barn door after the horse has been stolen, today's message is for earnest young aspirants to the Memorial Arena Commission.

First take a trip to Calgary and see the Calgary corral, which, to the uninitiated is the finest ice palace in western Canada and, at today's prices, probably one of the best on the continent.

Secondly, inspect the corral. And thirdly go back to Victoria.

Take another look at the Memorial Arena, and weep. . . . For here in the foothills city is an excellent example of what thoughtful planning can do.

The Calgary Arena, which took 15 months to complete from the time the first sod was turned in the Exhibition Park grounds, is certainly all that could be asked for at $1,400,000. Match this with the price of the Memorial Arena in Victoria (which is somewhere around the $1,100,000 mark and still climbing high, and the point should be well taken. . . .

Example No. 1—The corral seats 6,666, which is approximately 50 per cent more than can be less-comfortably accommodated in the Memorial Arena.

All seats are of the individual theatre-type design, and all afford an excellent view of the ice surface which compares with Victoria's in size.

Walker Example No. 2—None of the seats are obstructed in any way. Nuff said. . . .

Example No. 3—In addition to the 6,666 seats, there is ample room for 2,500 standees, again more than 50 per cent greater than allowed in Memorial Arena and those only at the fire marshal's discretion. . . .

Example No. 4—The standees are not jammed in behind the boxes as in Victoria, but are up in the gods, there being two tiers completely around the arena.

Example No. 5—The arena is heated and controlled thermostatically to 70 degrees or better. There are 30 individual heating units in 10 banks of three in the arena proper besides countless others in the foyers and dressing rooms.

Example No. 6—The foyers extend completely around the arena under the seats and average 24 to 30 feet in width. Again nuff said. . . .

Yep, All The Comforts Of Home

Example No. 7—Concession facilities are more than ample to accommodate a crowd of 10,000 as they, too, are situated practically throughout the lobby. Distribution, position and number of restrooms is more than adequate.

Example No. 8—Ticket booths facilities are inside the building, there being eight separate windows.

Besides these facilities about which arena and Stampeder club manager Lloyd Turner said: "You, too, could have had an arena in Victoria like this with more careful planning."

Admittedly this is like rubbing salt into an open wound, but one only has to see the Calgary corral to appreciate what might have been in Victoria with, as Turner said, "more careful planning."

P.S.—Down here all is quiet over the forthcoming Western Interprovincial Football Union meeting Saturday and the status of the Vancouver Totems. Most grid officials have gone into a shell over the issue which already has reached national importance. The feeling seems to be that Vancouver to get in, will have to settle for mid-week games and at the same time be tied down to a tremendous guarantee for visiting teams. It will be up to Vancouver officials to prove they can field a team capable of holding its place in the present four-team league.

Heard From A Prairie Wind

Also, majority of writers and radio-casters hold the opinion that their Vancouver counterparts have slung enough dirt to spoil the Vancouver entry's chances. This possibly accounts for the sudden hush-hush campaign in effect.

General manager Fred Hutchinson of the Cougars talked trade with Lloyd Turner Thursday but no dice.

Incidentally several of the injured Stamps may soon be back in action which would make the cowboys a serious threat for a playoff position.

Doug Anderson doesn't miss many tricks. He and Colin Kilburn of the Flyers are joint owners of a billiard emporium in Edmonton. They played on the same line for the Flyers last year.

The latest on Don Ashbee is that the Buffalo winger won't join the Cougars until Saturday at the earliest, if then. And oh yes they don't know what the word "in trouble" means at the corral! Next stop Edmonton.

VANCOUVER GRID MOGULS PLEAD CASE AT REGINA

VANCOUVER, Jan. 18 (CP)—Prepared to meet all arguments, Vancouver's delegates seeking entry for a coast team in the Western Inter-Provincial Football Union today were headed for Regina.

Orville Burke and Vic Spencer Jr. left by plane for Calgary Thursday where they will pick up delegate John Davidson.

The W.I.F.U. meeting is in Regina on Saturday.

"We're going to Regina assuming we're in," said Burke.

"We'll let the W.I.F.U. take it from there."

FIRST CLUB GALA

Vancouver Swim Club To Test Flying 'Y'

Percy Norman and his Vancouver Swimming Club will be in town tonight to match strokes with Archie McKinnon's Flying "Y" team. The meet is producing much enthusiasm among the local aqua stars who are waiting anxiously for the season's first inter-club gala.

The Vancouver entry will be a strong contingent with close to 100 swimmers and fans coming over for the Crystal Garden gala.

Dog Fanciers Plan Club Competition

Anticipating a busy and prosperous year, the Vancouver Island Dog Fanciers recently returned Mrs. C. A. McGee to the presidential post and Mrs. Ethel Webb to the position of secretary-treasurer.

Mrs. L. M. Wood of Melita Kennels was named first vice-president and Mr. C. Davis second vice-president.

The association as a whole has set as its 1952 objective the promotion of dog shows featuring top-island kennels and to have inter-city competition.

Bill Andrews Decides To End Lacrosse Career

By DENNY BOYD

The home dressing room at Memorial Arena is going to be a different place this lacrosse season. It will be different because there will be an empty seat at the end of one of the benches.

Bill Andrews, popular goal-keeper for the Shamrocks, has decided to hang up his stick after an illustrious career that has seen him blocking shots for 23 years.

Andrews told the Times Thursday that he feels it is time for him to quit the game while he still has his health. In spite of a long string of accidents, Andrews turned in his greatest performance last year when he registered the top goalkeepers' average in the Intercity Lacrosse League. He played half the season with a plaster cast covering his right hand, wrist and forearm after breaking his hand.

In addition to his hand injury, Andrews was hobbled all season by a lame shoulder and suffered two rib fractures.

Long a favorite with local fans, Andrews was a dynamic figure in the Shamrock nets—his corpulent frame made huge by the padding he wore to protect the many bruises incurred in protecting his citadel. In spite of his size, he moved with the speed and grace of a cat.

Two years ago Andrews lost the goal-keeper crown to North Shore's Stan Joseph by the margin of one decimal point. At the end of the season, Andrews was named top goalie but a recheck on the statistics gave the honor to Joseph.

Last season, Andrews' average was sufficiently better than the other goalies in the league that there was no doubt at the end of the season who the crown belonged to.

Bill explains his retirement this way: "I have had two pretty good years," he says, "and if I have to quit the game, I want it to be with good memories. This is the right time."

"Too many athletes stay with a game until they are so old and puny that they are nothing but bums. I wouldn't want that to happen to me."

Andrews stated further that he could tell it was time for him to quit. "When the old legs start giving you trouble, the game isn't much fun anymore," he said.

Added to this is the fact that Andrews is a sergeant on the Victoria Police Force and cannot devote as much time to lacrosse as he feels is necessary to remain in top shape and to do justice to the team.

"Sure I'm going to miss the Rocks," he said, "they are the greatest bunch of guys I have ever played with and I've been in the game since I was 11."

His retirement poses a difficult problem for the Shamrocks in their attempt to bring the Mann Cup to Victoria in 1952. Just who the club will find to replace Andrews is not known. It is a near certainty that the replacement will have to be an import as there does not appear to be a goalie of senior calibre in Victoria. One possible exception would be Buzz Long if he is still interested in playing lacrosse.

Nanaimo's Freddy Fulla would be a suitable replacement but this move would likely meet stiff opposition from the Intercity League as without Fulla, Nanaimo would be little better than a good senior B team.

Rumors have been circulated that Moon Wootton of Peterborough Petes is interested in coming to the coast but nothing definite has been done in this direction.

Hey, What Happened To Me?

Hopes Dim After 14-3 Nightmare

By BILL WALKER

CALGARY—If the Cougars were pitiful in losing to Vancouver Canucks, 6-4, Tuesday night while playing "defensive" hockey on the first game of their "make or break" swing through the prairies, then Thursday night's display here goes without adequate adjectives.

The final score in case it still is of any news value was Calgary 14, Victoria 3. But that doesn't half tell story of a game that is fast degenerating into an also-ran in the Pacific Coast Hockey League race and a poor risk at that.

The game was close for only 55 seconds in the Calgary corral. That's the time it took the Stampedeers to score their first goal through George Agar who was to lead the horrendous display that followed with seven points on four goals and three assists.

ALAS, POOR JIM

Up until Agar had scored that first goal, however, Jim Shirley who really did have a bad night, though his defense could also be considered a myth, had made two saves, both on clear breaks.

And that was the pattern that followed. The Stampers ripped six past Shirley in the first period, piled in four more in the second stanza and then pumped an additional quartette into the rigging in the third.

Outside of the 14 goals that beat him, Shirley, paradoxically, could be said to have had a good night when it is considered that during the game he stopped 40 other Stampeder drives, at least a third of which were either from point-blank range or close enough that Shirley had little trouble in looking into the whites of the eyes of the cowboy forwards.

The only Cougars who made less mistakes than the others were Jerry Cote and Joe Medynski, who didn't play and Roger Leger, who saw action in the first period only.

Incidentally, Leger can today be credited with the overstatement of the year by a remark made Thursday when he said: "We're going to open up the game and make the Stampedeers skate."

THEY SKATED

Well, skate the Stamps did and they held such a wide margin of play territorially that the Cougars had no business getting three goals although they were outlucked on a couple of tries, Bob Frampton and Reg Abbott coming the closest of any.

And if it's any consolation, Abbott, Doug Anderson and Jack McIntyre did score for the Cougars, Abbott's goal from Bernie Strongman being a well-earned effort, though it came with the Stamps obviously tired from their heavy chores.

The defeat, the Cougars sixth in their last seven games, left the club precariously close to the cellar, only one point and Vancouver Canucks and Calgary being between them and the darkest recesses of oblivion.

And if the club continues to generate the musty air that pervaded an otherwise clear evening in this foothills city Thursday, even the unpractised eye should realize that soon they'll be calling last year's champs the biggest overplay since the Shamrocks.

WHAT'S NEXT

Tonight it's Edmonton, who haven't been beaten since Doug McCall took over from Frank Currie.

Just what style of attack, or rather, defense, Leger intends to use is a mystery. Just as it is a mystery why the Stamps didn't get at least five other goals here Thursday.

They were that superior. For other statistics read the summary which will be found elsewhere on this page. It is correct in all its horrible details.

CHARGE DISCRIMINATION

Trail Hockey Mentors Blast Canadian Body

TRAIL, B.C., Jan. 18 (CP)—Bill (Red) Hunter teamed up with junior Smoke Eaters' coach Jimmy Anderson in his denunciation of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association's decision to bar a junior entry from British Columbia in the Memorial Cup play-downs.

Hunter, former manager of the Saskatoon Quakers and the Regina Caps, asked "where the C.A.H.A. ever got the idea that B.C. juniors were not good enough for the western clubs, or is this a move by certain hockey moguls to make B.C. juniors free agents in order to pick up talent to strengthen their weaker clubs?"

Hunter said that the C.A.H.A. move was a flagrant injustice to all boys in B.C.

"The members of the C.A.H.A. cannot and must not allow this to happen," he said.

"I have been around the hockey scene and in my travels I don't believe I have ever seen a more promising junior team than the Trail Junior Smoke Eaters are building at the present time. Right now they could give any western club a good battle."

Hunter said seven players who formerly played hockey here now are playing in the western loop. He referred specifically to Harold Jones, Seth Martin and Len Smigel, now with Lethbridge Native Sons; John Parolone and Jim MacDonald of Medicine Hat; Dino Maniag of Edmonton and Leo Malley with Prince Albert.

On the OUTDOOR FRONT

By ROY THORSEN

Younger bloods have been given the job of operating the Victoria Gun Club—the trap and skeet shooting club—for 1952. At the annual meeting of the club held Thursday night in the board room at the Dominion Hotel, members elected an executive of the younger set to handle their affairs at the Albert Head Road shooting grounds.

It was a poorly attended meeting. There was not more than 21 bodies present—and that to this reporter would indicate that the general membership has an attitude that adds up to "let George do the work and we'll be along to join in the fun."

However, the meeting unanimously elected George Farmer, of the Farmer construction firm, as their president for 1952. George is a keen advocate of interesting the younger generation in sport. He's the sponsor of at least two juvenile baseball teams... and is therefore helping to keep youth off the street

Big Year Ahead For Nimrods

Retiring chairman Clarke Atchison (he refused the chairmanship post again) and Roger Monteth noted that the Albert Head Road shooting grounds had been promised the annual B.C. trap championship tourney this year. It will be a two-day international affair, no date set. Monteth, long-time veteran of the Victoria Gun Club, and retiring proxy Atchison were elected honorary vice-presidents of the club.

Atchison and Noble were chosen as club delegates to the B.C.A. Heartening news from Murray Laidlaw, B.C. representative for Canadian Industries Ltd., was that there are no immediate indications of an increase in the cost of shotgun shells. He said

Grilse Topic Of Discussions

Howard Zaccarelli voted that Russell Horton, former club proxy, be approached on the proposition that the winner of his shield, awarded to the club member registering the highest average during the year, be decided on the best average scored by members firing at their first 300 birds following the opening of the season. The meeting supported him.

Howard Z., by the way, volunteered to keep the count on the averages. He did the same last year.

George Douglas, secretary of the Victoria-Saanich Inlet Anglers' Association, tells us that the suggestion that grilse cannot be taken under 16 inches in length will be one of the main topics

READY FOR ALPINES

Individuals Pin Hopes On Long Johnny Fields

Johnny Fields has been named as centre man when the Victoria Individuals meet Seattle's Alpine Dairy Saturday night at the Victoria High School gym.

Fields is replacing Johnny Clark, who is still sidelined with calcium deposits on the left knee. Coach Doug Peden is hoping that the six-foot-four youth will come in handy pivoting the Viduals' bucket plays.

Flanking Fields in the week-end contest will be Elmer Curtis and Wes Maudslaw, with Bob Boyce and Peden at the guard positions.

Others who are bound to see plenty of action during the game are Vince Clarkson, Rookie Wright and Vic Dale.

ISLAND FINALS

Next month, the local cagers enter the Vancouver Island basketball championships against Alberni Athletics.

Manager Pat Horgan reported Thursday that he hopes to have the powerful Bellingham G-Men as opposition for the Individuals one week from Saturday.

MERCURY'S WIN

COLOGNE, Germany, Jan. 18 (CP).—Edmonton Mercury's, Canada's entry in the hockey championships at the winter Olympics in Oslo next month, defeated Preussen Krefeld 10-5 Thursday for their second decisive victory over Germany's champion team.

THE ANNUAL MEETING OF THE RECREATION COUNCIL OF GREATER VICTORIA will be held at Wallace House, 1801 Cook Street, Victoria, on Thursday, January 31 at 8 p.m. (not as previously advertised). The public is cordially invited to attend.

Sawchuk In Great Stand

Detroit Goalie Making Bid For Vezina Trophy

By JACK SULLIVAN

The way things are going this season, goalkeeper Terry Sawchuk should be the most decorated modern-day player when the National League schedule winds up in March.

Terry scored his eighth shut-out of the season Thursday night as the league-leading Wings plastered Boston Bruins 5-0 at Detroit while the second-place Toronto Maple Leafs were held to a 2-2 draw at Montreal. The Detroit victory gave the Wings an 11-point lead over the Leafs who hold a three-point edge over Montreal.

New York Rangers broke a fourth-place tie with Boston as they battled the last-place Black Hawks to a 6-6 tie at Chicago. The Hawks' Bill Mosienko, who the club since 1941, scored the 20th goal of his N.H.L. career late in the third period.

LOTS OF GOALS

It was the second high-scoring game between the clubs in two nights. On Wednesday, Chicago downed the Blue Shirts 6-4 at New York.

The eight goose eggs for the pink-cheeked 21-year-old "Sawchuk gave him a big lead in the hunt for the Vezina Trophy as the best netminder in the six-team circuit. Right now, he's almost a lead-pipe clinch to take over from Toronto's Al Rollins, winner in 1950-51, who has only three shutouts this campaign.

The record books don't show it, but the Winnipeg-born Sawchuk probably is the only player to take the rookie award in three leagues. He won it in 1947-48 while playing with Omaha of the now-defunct United States Hockey League, repeated with Indianapolis of the American League the following year and last season scored the third with the Wings.

IMPRESSIVE RECORD

The 5-0 shutout gave the Wings a goal-for-and-against record of 113 and 74, streets ahead of the second-place Leafs who have a 98-85 posting. Unless Sawchuk muffs some easy ones or is sidelined with injuries, he can start tucking away the $10,000 given by the N.H.L. to the Vezina Trophy winner.

Captain Sid Abel paced the Wings scorers with two, his 10th and 11th of the season. Marty Pavelich, Red Kelly and Marcel Pronovost were the other Detroit marksmen.

LEAFS RALLY

A crowd of 14,452 at the Montreal Forum watched Leafs twice come from behind to gain the tie. Bert Olmstead sent Canadiens into a 1-0 first-period lead. Captain Ted Kennedy of the Leafs tied it in the second and

MEET ROYALS HERE

United In Peak Shape

Victoria United will have an unmarred line-up when they go against New Westminster Royals in their Coast Soccer League match at Royal Athletic Park Saturday.

Their only dubious starter, fullback Bill Hope who suffered a knee-injury in fast week's exhibition contest, is reported in good enough shape to defend goal.

The United forward line will consist of Wallace Milligan at the centre position with Den McGee and Bernie Clarkson flanking him on the left, and Stan Bob and Cedric Robb on the opposite wing.

Sid Robbins will pivot John Pickburn and Jack Robbins on the intermediate line.

Substitutes for Saturday's match are Pete Anderson, Jack Strachan, Doc Hayward and Lorne Ettinger, former Collingwood net-minder.

With a win over the Royals Saturday, the locals will take a fourth point in the race for second half honors. Their first second-half win was against North Shore Reds, first half titlists, two weeks ago.

Game time Saturday is 2.15.

Saanich Sees Way To Sewer

An alternative Saanich sewer plan that will use city connections and three extra pumps will permit construction of the municipal sewer system within the $2,100,000 authorized by by-law, Reeve Joseph W. Casey predicted today.

"I figure the whole thing will go in for the money voted," he said. "I'm sure we will not have to ask for more."

The original sewer plan called for a single connection into the Northwest sewer, and construction of rock tunnels that would permit a huge portion of Saanich, outside the present sewer area, to be taken into the system as the municipality grew.

"As the need arises we can make adequate arrangements for those areas," Reeve Casey said. "Meanwhile our job is to accommodate the people in the sewer area who are paying for it."

Several alternatives have been offered, but the one favored by the reeve eliminates considerable work.

TUNNELS COSTLY

Tunnels that would have cost $900,000 and one big pumping station in the Gorge will be dropped from the plan.

Instead three smaller pumps will be installed, bringing the total required to 10, and connections will be made with the city system at three points.

"That right was contained in our Northwest sewer agreement," the reeve said.

Word of the proposed scheme will come as a great relief to Saanich ratepayers who were more than a little concerned when the first issue of sewer bonds sold—like other similar issues across Canada—for only 87.75 per cent of par value.

Canada's Plan On N.A.T.O. Army Under Review

OTTAWA, Jan. 18 (CP)—Canada's policy of paying all her own army bills in Germany—frustrated and unfulfilled for months anyway—may be partly altered when the occupation ends, presumably within the next few months.

No decision has yet been made. Officials say none can be until the major powers thrash out with Germany just what costs she will bear as her share of joint western defense once she becomes virtually a sovereign power again.

It is not impossible, however, informed quarters feel, that if arrangements are made for ally Germany to foot certain bills for all non-German N.A.T.O. forces in Germany, Canada would accept those arrangements on her own behalf.

The latest unhappiness over the pitfalls that have befallen the policy, come Thursday. The influential Manchester Guardian published a report from Hanover, headquarters of the 27th Canadian Brigade, interpreting it as a "frank attempt to win friends and influence people" in Germany and said it "may prove an embarrassment" to the British and American occupation forces.

BARGAINING LEVER

It might result, the Guardian said, in a German call for Britain and the U.S. to do as Canada is doing.

The trouble is that the Germans have been doing just this, have been using the Canadian policy both as a lever and a bargaining weapon to an extent which has already caused embarrassment and some indignation here.

The Guardian story may lead to an official statement on the Canadian position.

Canada's stand is that her position in Germany and that of the occupying powers is quite different. The 27th Brigade is there as a N.A.T.O. defense force. It has not connection with the occupation of a defeated country, therefore has no moral right to accept occupation costs as Britain, the U.S. and France have been doing for six years and have a right to continue to do until the occupation ends.

SKATING STAR SENSATION

Wizardry Of Barbara Captivates New York

NEW YORK, Jan. 18 (BUP)—Barbara Ann Scott, the ash blonde Olympic skating star from Ottawa, thrilled a packed Madison Square Garden here Thursday night with her superb grace and mastery of difficult jumps and spins as the new star of the Hollywood Ice Revue.

Miss Scott, who replaced Sonja Henie as the extraganza's star, put on a performance that stopped the show.

She gained the praise of New York's toughest audience, the critics. Their reviews contained nothing but praise for her artistry on ice.

Walter Terry of the Herald Tribune said "Miss Scott is a lyricist on ice and a lovely one."

... "a virtuoso" ... her "invitation to the waltz" was truly memorable.

STOPS THE SHOW

"She stopped the show Thursday night with her 'Star of the North' opening routine and has a hit all over again with the familiar 'Invitation to the Waltz,'" Robert Sylvester of the New York Daily News said.

Von Weber's "Invitation to the Waltz" is a captivating ballet which combined the talents of Miss Scott and her superb partner, Michael Kirby.

Principal performers in the revue included Carol Lynne, Andrea McLoughlin, Skippy Baxter, Freddie Trenkler, Jean and Calvin Cook, John Walsh and the Bruises.

ZEBALLOS—Holly Roche, 5, has had proof that a cougar, contrary to fable, will attack a human.

While playing in her garden in this mining town recently, she saw a cougar a few feet away. She screamed, and as her father, Paul Roche, approached, the cougar grabbed her with its forepaws.

Her father frightened it off, took the child to safety, then ran to a neighbor for help with the cougar right behind him. One-half-hour later it was killed by the seven men who answered Roche's alarm. The animal was full-grown.

Death Driver's Trial Ordered

Conflicting Stories Told In Court
Before Committal On Manslaughter

Conflicting statements alleged to have been made by a car driver charged with manslaughter, highlighted a preliminary hearing in city police court today.

Charged is John Frederick Sexton, 24, of 1561 Gladstone, following the death last December 12 of 3½-year-old Victoria Fisher, of 1541 Gladstone, after being struck by Sexton's 1948 sedan car.

He was committed for trial in a higher court at the conclusion of the hearing.

Gordon Poupore, counsel, said he did not wish to call his defense at this time.

Evidence was that Sexton was making a turn from Belmont onto Gladstone when the accident occurred.

Witness' STORY Elizabeth H. C. Gowan, 915 Foul Bay, told the court that shortly after the accident, she had a talk with Sexton. Accused said that he was teaching his wife to drive at the time, she related.

Poupore did not object to this testimony.

To city police and an independent witness, Sexton is alleged to have stated that the accident was caused when his foot slipped off the brake and onto the gas pedal, and the car went out of control while negotiating the turn.

Evidence was that the car mounted the curb on Gladstone, sheared off a rotting telephone pole, struck another and hit a fence. En route the little girl was struck, and she died in Jubilee Hospital five minutes after her arrival.

Dick Fisher, father of the child, broke down and sobbed while giving testimony.

Sexton is alleged to have told police that after mounting the curb, he had slammed on his brakes on seeing the child, but that the brakes had failed to work.

William Bridgewood, veteran garage mechanic, told the court that when he examined the car's brakes following the accident he found them in good condition.

He and Lionel G. MacLachlan, 23, a Nanaimo window cleaner, pleaded guilty in police court to a charge of carrying weapons capable of being concealed.

Remanded by Mag. Lionel Bevo-Potts to Jan. 22 for sentence, the men were confined to jail pending their appearance.

THE LATE ALBERT JONES

Albert Jones, Times Veteran, Dies Suddenly

A resident of Victoria for 57 years, Albert Jones, former circulation manager of the Victoria Daily Times, died suddenly at his home, 407 Gorge Road East Thursday afternoon.

Born at St. Helen's, Lancs., in 1892, he came to Victoria as an infant, was educated at the old Boys' Central School. He worked on circulation staffs of both Victoria newspapers as a young man, served overseas in the First World War, and joined The Times as circulation manager on his return. He retired last year.

Mr. Jones was a past master of Vancouver and Quadra Lodge No. 2, A.F. & A.M. The lodge is making funeral arrangements for Monday.

The widow and one son, Cedric, survive.

MORE ABOUT PREMIER

"For, within ministry and cabinet alike, the premier is the key man, even if not always the outstanding personality. He has put the other ministers where they are. He exercises a general surveillance and co-ordinating influence over their work. He presides at cabinet meetings and counsels continually with individual members, encouraging, admonishing, advising, instructing. He irones out difficulties arising between ministers or departments. If necessary, he can require of his colleagues that they accept his views, with the alternative of his resignation or theirs; for it is tactically essential that the cabinet, however, divided in its opinion when behind closed doors, shall present a solid front to Parliament and the world.

"There have been cases in which a cabinet minister has resigned rather than accept a policy supported by the prime minister.

"Indeed, he can, and occasionally does, request and secure from the Sovereign the removal of a minister for insubordination or other offense. (An illustration of this was the dismissal of E. S. Montagu as Secretary of State for India in 1922, on the ground that he had given publicity to an important state paper without communicating and consulting with his colleagues.) He is, and is expected to be, the leader of the ministerial group; as its chief spokesman, he will have to bear the brunt of attacks made upon it; and it is logical enough that his authority shall be disciplinary as well as merely moral.

"I have quoted this brief extract from an authoritative volume on constitutional government because I think it clearly states the case in this particular instance, as well as serving to indicate the total lack of regard that Mr. Anscomb has shown to his obligations under constitutional government as known and practised in democratic countries, but more particularly those countries forming the Commonwealth of Nations," the Premier concluded.

four grade-school students, for playing with an air rifle and riding double on a bicycle.

Three of them—Dennis Begg, Ernie Moon and Frank Copley—were from S. J. Willis Junior High School, while the fourth was 11-year-old Gordon Eekman of Sir James Douglas.

Rotarians roared with laughter as the terrier tugged at the trousers cuff of the youngster who wanted to ride double on his friend's bike—they applauded with pleasure as she barked a warning for him not to do it again.

Before the demonstration, Dr. Brunson (described by publisher Keate as a man who "strikes me as a human dynamo") told club members he started training Knee-Hi the first as a safety dog about 20 years ago. He taught the seven-week-old pup at the rate of three words a day, five days a week.

Dr. Brunson, a child psychologist and former school superintendent in Philadelphia, was convinced that children would remember safety lessons taught them by a dog far longer than if a teacher had spoken of them.

"But didn't it take a lot of patience to teach the dog these lessons?" someone once asked him.

Replied Brunson: "Yes, on the part of the dog."

Government Probe Into Lake Issue Asked

T. G. Norris Seeks Legislative Action In Brief To Minister

The Buttle Lake question should be submitted to the B.C. Legislature with a recommendation that it appoint a special committee of its own to make a thorough investigation to determine the best possible use of the lake.

This was the contention of T. G. Norris, in a brief prepared for submission to Lands Minister E. T. Kenney, sitting to hear an appeal against the decision by E. C. Tredcroft, comptroller of water rights, who recently ruled B.C. Power Commission should be allowed to dam the lake for power development.

Norris, who as counsel for conservationists, opposed to the damming, protested in his brief that Tredcroft had not the right to rule on the case in the first place and that Minister Kenney had no right to sit as a board of appeal.

He said that long ago the provincial government had showed itself to be in favor of the damming.

"Surely then in the face of that announced policy the comptroller of water rights could not bring in a finding adverse to the government's policy and hope to hold his position," the brief said.

"Could it be expected even in the wildest imaginings, that a government official, bound to do his duty in carrying out the policy of the government could possibly bring in a finding which would declare that that policy was all wrong, particularly when the party seeking the benefit of the policy was another arm of government authority.

Norris said that in having to go before Kenney to appeal, the issue was becoming a "farce."

"You as a member of the government are bound on the basis of cabinet responsibility and solidarity to support at all costs the policy of the government."

Norris complained bitterly that Tredcroft had refused to give reasons for his decision.

SUNSHINE BACK FOR WEEK-END

A nice week-end of sunny skies and mild temperatures is in store for Victoria, weatherman William Mackie said today.

The city is now sitting in the middle of a mass of fresh, northwest air, he said. Daytime temperatures will be moderate, but a low of 32 is expected tonight, with a good chance of light ground frost.

Other Vancouver Island points also are basking in a brief respite from winter, he said.

EX-PARISIAN CHUCKLING

Bond-Brandishing Joker Asks Date With 'Victim'

By DON INGHAM

A sparkling old gentleman of 73 has been giving himself a few chuckles in the past three days by strewing valueless Russian bonds, issued by the Czarist Government in the First World War, all over the city.

Now he has a new joke.

Leon Etienne, an irrepressible ex-Parisian who retired here three years ago, is about to "needle" one of the recipients of the bonds he says he found in a post office waste basket.

He gave one on Wednesday to Miss Ivy Humberstone, 305 Montreal, while she was standing on Fort Street, then hurried off. She described him later as "shabbily dressed."

"So," said the elderly prankster today at his home, 151 Oswego, "I have for her the letter, asking that if maybe she will buy me some clothes I will meet her dressed as Beau Brummel himself."

"But shabbily dressed?" he said with a mock scowl. "Mais non! I think I look pretty good."

Before throwing the bonds

LEON ETIENNE ... has new joke.

about he checked their value with a stockbroker, he said, then stuffed a few in the mail, gave a few away to a number of startled folk, and turned the rest over to city police.

POLICE CHIEF'S SON IS CONSCIOUS

Boy Struck By Falling Telephone Pole Off Jubilee Hospital's 'Critical' List

Police Chief John Blackstock's son, George, is conscious again. Struck by a falling telephone pole Thursday at 3:20, George, 18, was critically hurt. He regained consciousness at mid-morning today.

Jubilee Hospital reports his condition as "fair." It had been "critical."

The boy was riding his bicycle along the 1100 block of Balmoral on his way to pick up newspapers for his Times delivery route. Eye-witnesses said he apparently saw the falling pole at the last moment, and made a frantic effort to avoid it. It struck him between neck and shoulder.

"Some of the men thought he was dead," one witness told a Times reporter. "But after four or five minutes he opened his eyes, and said, 'Let me up.' He lost consciousness again later.

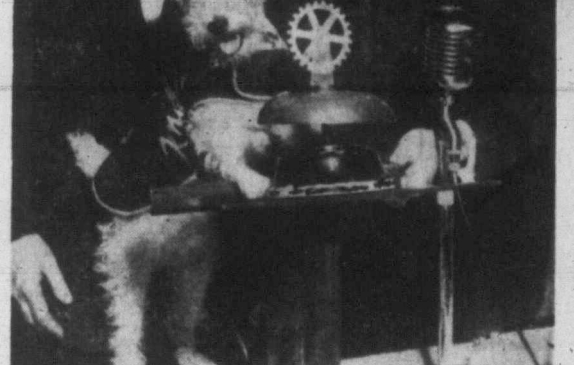

"He was bleeding pretty badly about the face," this witness added. "But when he spoke we were all pretty much relieved. We figured he wasn't as bad as we'd thought."

"We said, 'You lie still, son, and you'll be all right.'"

CAUGHT FULL IMPACT Eye-witnesses added that the boy got the full impact of the falling pole. They could see him coming, and the pole falling, and they realized it was going to be close.

"But it all happened in split seconds and there wasn't time to do anything, although I guess we shouted," one said.

Exact results of X-ray examinations have not been disclosed. Dr. W. A. McElmoyle is attending the boy.

Rotarians Meet Knee-Hi

Dr. Ballard's safety pup showed the "big fellows" how to obey the rules Thursday when she went to the weekly Rotary Club luncheon. Perched at the head table, she tells them the facts of a safe life while her master, Dr. George Brunson (left), and Times publisher Stuart Keate listen carefully. (Times Photo).

'My Dogs Are Killing Me,' Knee-Hi Complains So Safety-Teaching Pup Gets Week-End's Rest

By RON BAIRD

Knee-Hi is taking a week-end vacation.

Her feet hurt.

Dr. Ballard's snow-white safety pup has pranced about in front of more than 3,000 Victoria school children but when her feet got sore, she took medical advice and is resting up for another big week starting Monday.

Veterinarian Dr. R. E. Cranston took a look at Knee-Hi a couple of days ago, bandaged two of her feet but added that there's nothing much wrong with her that a few days rest won't cure.

But the little pup, a real trouper, didn't let a couple of sore feet stop her from having lunch with the Rotary Club Thursday at the Empress.

And, after lunch, she demonstrated to club members some of the safety rules that thousands of school children have already seen.

REMARKABLE EXAMPLE Said Victoria Times publisher Stuart Keate, in introducing Knee-Hi's master, Dr. George

Brunson, and referring to Knee-Hi's performance:

"This is one of the most remarkable examples of child education we have seen here."

The Rotarians agreed heartily after Knee-Hi soundly chastised

four grade-school students, for playing with an air rifle and riding double on a bicycle.

Three of them—Dennis Begg, Ernie Moon and Frank Copley—were from S. J. Willis Junior High School, while the fourth was 11-year-old Gordon Eekman of Sir James Douglas.

Rotarians roared with laughter as the terrier tugged at the trousers cuff of the youngster who wanted to ride double on his friend's bike—they applauded with pleasure as she barked a warning for him not to do it again.

Before the demonstration, Dr. Brunson (described by publisher Keate as a man who "strikes me as a human dynamo") told club members he started training Knee-Hi the first as a safety dog about 20 years ago. He taught the seven-week-old pup at the rate of three words a day, five days a week.

Dr. Brunson, a child psychologist and former school superintendent in Philadelphia, was convinced that children would remember safety lessons taught them by a dog far longer than if a teacher had spoken of them.

"But didn't it take a lot of patience to teach the dog these lessons?" someone once asked him.

Replied Brunson: "Yes, on the part of the dog."

They should be sent in care of the Times.

And don't forget the scrap-books, kids.

Clip out all the stories and pictures that appear daily in the Times, then add any other safety pictures and stories from other papers and magazines.

The student with the best scrap-book wins Knee-Hi's cousin—a bright, little wire-haired puppy.

Living Unbalanced As Far As Furniture Concerned!

By PENNY SAVER

Contemporary! In the dictionary it says, "Living or existing at the same time. Having the same age."

Boy! That describes the new contemporary furniture—down to a "T."

You may think that "dear ol' Pen" has gone off the beaten track when I start babbling about modernistic furniture. Not so!

Gracious, I can't go on for ever without breaking loose once in awhile and telling you about the new arrivals, even if it is in the higher-price range. You still get your money's worth.

You know, when you think about it, it is time we accepted furniture on a par with our new homes and new clothes.

Surrounded By Traditional Gloom

For some time now we have been blossoming forth in clothes in exciting new colors, but we still surround ourselves with traditional "gloomy" furnishings. Granted, there are the few brave ones who have completed their new homes with furniture of the "same age," as the dictionary puts it.

So far I've only mentioned contemporary furniture in connection with new homes. Don't back away from it if you live in an older home. It can be adapted to spacious older homes as well as the smallest, most modern apartment or bungalow.

The trick is to stack one thing on top of another. Sounds like fun doesn't it? Actually, that is exactly what you can do. If your room is small, instead of having a separate table and maybe a book case too, you put the book case on one end of the table and save that much space. Another idea would be to put the book case on the wall.

Everything is new in contemporary furniture. The woods are treated differently, the shapes are new and the colors breath-taking.

I won't spoil your delight by trying to describe the designs. I'll let you see the exhibit which is on now. Marvel at it yourself!

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Why Not Have Fun As A Grandmother?

Did you ever think of being a grandmother as a hobby? Of course you first have to have children and they must have children before you are made an honest grandmother, but the idea that it might be a fascinating hobby is really intriguing, especially if you love children and you have already had enough of your own.

Edith G. Neisser had an interesting article recently in the Journal of Living, in which she gave the rules for making being a grandmother an enjoyable hobby rather than an opportunity for strife.

In short, part of it is: Unfair competition is against the rules. In other words the mother takes care of the children hour by hour—day by day—and you are not fair if you spoil them too much and leave the correction to the mother. Don't you remember? Spoil them just a little.

Also, every generation makes its own mistakes and you had best let your offspring make theirs just as you did yours, with nary a word. Hard? Yes!

Do you know what this sounds like to me? It sounds like eating your cake and not getting indigestion from it, if you are just a little bit smart. Here you have ready-made children, and no responsibility, except at times. For heaven's sake do not antagonize the mother and do not dump burdens on her shoulders.

With the privilege of being a grandmother also comes a responsibility. The final decision and the ultimate affection should go to the parents. If little Johnny weeps his pants longer than he should—or does not get the rest you think he should, be temperate in your opinion.

I become so imbued with what I write that now I wish I had more children so I could have more grandchildren but maybe it will all work out. My father was one of nine sons.

Make being a grandmother a hobby—but if you hope to do so you will have to use restraint and diplomacy and play fair.

Prelude To Gay Spring At Eaton's Fashion Show

Jean Matthews, Canadian Gold Medalist and feature skater with Ice Cycles, models a smart white moys-shell linen suit and Strathmore model felt with novel black velvet edging.

Members of the cast of the Ice Cycles of 1952 were among the models in the spring fashion show at Eaton's yesterday afternoon.

Loud applause greeted the suits especially those in grey material. Skirts of two gave an appearance of slowness from the front, while ample walking room was allowed by three box pleats at the back of each.

One jacket was buttoned on a slanting line. Accessories with this model included a tiny bright green sailor worn straight on the head and a tightly-rolled umbrella of matching green. Another jacket had a scalloped hemline and cuffed, bracelet-length sleeves.

Vivid accents against the grey were mustard gloves and mustard banding on a fine black straw cloche.

Several coats were shown for wear either with or without belts. One outstanding model was in a large brown and white check and had sloping shoulders with wide batwing sleeves. It was worn over a white dress with dark brown accessories.

A white boucle dress was modelled with rose-red shortie coat and matching pill-box hat. A casual white linen belted suit and hat was accented with all-black accessories and narrow black banding on the hat.

Mrs. F. Clayden, treasurer, reported $1,608.40 raised by the groups and combined efforts of the Union. Of this amount, $538 was paid to the Missionary Secretariat of Baptist convention of British Columbia.

A life membership in the B.C. Women's Missionary Society was presented to Mrs. A. Middleton by Mesdames J. Mackay and S. Freeman.

Rev. G. R. Easter read from the new translation of the Bible and gave dedicatory address and prayer for incoming officers. They are: Mrs. A. Grodke, president; Mrs. F. Worthy, vice-president; Mrs. Mackay, secretary; Mrs. Glen Finlay, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Clayden, treasurer; and Mrs. Easter, honorary president.

Plans were made to renovate and buy a new stove for the kitchen. Funds for this will be raised at a Valentine tea on Feb. 14 and a concert in March.

Usual allotment of Missionary money was increased by $25, making $500 to be paid to Board, and other expenses including kitchen charges amounting to a budget of $1425 being planned. Mrs. N. Phillips closed the meeting with prayer and Mrs. Ralph was pianist.

Shirley Simpson Married At Ceremony In Saskatoon

Rugby Chapel Emmanuel College, Saskatoon, was the scene recently of a wedding ceremony that united in marriage Shirley Seymour Simpson, only daughter of Mrs. Cecilia Simpson, Victoria, and late Sidney Simpson, and Lieutenant Reginald Morrow Callard, only son of Mr. and Mrs. R. Callard, Toftfield, Alta.

Bishop S. Steer, assisted by Rev. R. G. Douglas, officiated. The wedding music was played by P. O. T. A. Marshall, R.C.A.F.

The bride was given in marriage by her uncle, Judge W. L. Clink, of Estevan. She wore an exquisite bridal gown of white lace and marquisette over taffeta in redingote style. The redingote was in lace and featured an Elizabethan collar and cuffs, and fell to a graceful train. She carried a cascade bouquet of Talisman roses and her only ornament was her grandmother's pendant of sapphires and pearls.

Matron of honor was Mrs. Cecilia Chanin, Saskatoon, cousin of the bride, who wore a floor-length gown of pale pink brocaded satin with matching gloves and headpiece. She carried a bouquet of blue carnations.

Sub-Lieutenant D. A. Mitchell, R.C.N., was best man, and John Clink, cousin of the bride, and E. Phipps were ushers.

The reception was held at Clinton Lodge.

For going away the bride wore a turquoise blue wool dress with navy and red accessories topped with a steel grey coat.

The newlyweds will live in Saskatoon, where the groom is a law student at the University of Saskatchewan.

Among guests who went to Saskatoon for the marriage were Mr. and Mrs. R. Callard, Toftfield, Alta.; Mrs. K. Evans, Calgary; Mr. and Mrs. H. S. Stewart, Mr. C. C. Greener, Mr. and Mrs. R. Willocks, Mrs. J. E. Nunn, Miss Madeline Leslie, all of Battleford; Mr. and Mrs. D. A. Stewart, with Sharon and Sandra, North Battleford; Judge W. L. Clink and Mrs. Clink, and Mr. John Clink, Estevan; Mrs. E. W. Ridington and Kathryn, Prince Albert, and Miss Edith Sutherland, Regina.

Named President

Mrs. M. R. Rogers was elected president of Centennial United Church Patrician Club at their recent annual meeting.

Other officers are: Mrs. S. Hunt, vice-president; Mrs. W. N. Ellis, secretary; Miss M. Brooke, treasurer; Mrs. F. Potts, social convener; Miss M. Bullivant and D. A. MacLeod, sick committee; Mrs. S. Richard, spring tea convener, and Mrs. W. R. Ashford, bazaar committee.

Preliminary plans for spring tea were made.

Women's Benefit Association, Review No. 1, K. of P. Hall, Monday at 7.30. Social evening.

Early Days At Barkerville Described By Lottie Bowron

In a vivid word picture, Miss Lottie Bowron told members of Victoria Business and Professional Women's Club at a meeting earlier this week, something of the struggles of a party of "overlanders" who crossed the Rocky Mountains at Tete Juan Cache in Yellowhead Pass in the 1860's.

The group then followed the Fraser River from its source to the small town of Quesnel. From there, many of them went into the goldfields of the Cariboo to become citizens of what at that time was one of the largest towns west of the Rockies—Barkerville.

Miss Bowron's father, John Bowron, later to become one of the first gold commissioners of the province, was one of the party. She was born in Barkerville and spent much of her early girlhood there.

She described the little town as it was then and as it is today and spoke of the many interesting people who lived, worked and died, in the "golden Cariboo."

Mrs. Kate Farquharson introduced Miss Bowron and Mrs. B. R. Murgatroyd thanked her.

At a business meeting that followed, Miss Mary Cliff, chairman of the finance committee, announced a rummage sale for early March and a table-top pageant with dialogue in February.

Named "The Challenge", the pageant is a resume of outstanding events depicting how women got the vote. Authentically costumed and with authentic incidents and dialogue, the pageant will show the growth of the suffragette movement, in serious and comic vein, from its start

B.C. Has Shortage Of Radio, TV Technicians

An acute shortage of experienced radio and television technicians is feared in British Columbia, according to the December report of the Unemployment Insurance Commission.

"With the increased sale of television sets, a short supply of experienced technicians is developing and dealers fear that within the next few months this shortage will be a serious problem," said the report.

Auto mechanics, bodymen and partsmen are also in short supply in the garage business.

Dealing with construction in the province as a whole, the report said prospects for 1952 appear to be exceptionally good with a large volume of industrial, institutional and public utility projects scheduled for the coming months.

"However, there is no indication of any revival in the building of family housing at this time," the report stated.

Reviewing the entire year, the report said payrolls are higher than any other time in history.

Pledged To Wipe Out World Trade Losses

LONDON, Jan. 17 (AP)—Eighteen British Commonwealth nations, not including Canada, pledged Thursday to wipe out all their world-trade losses by late 1952.

The move to save the British sterling area's trade and monetary system from collapse will spread austerity to most of the Commonwealth's 500,000,000 citizens.

The man in the street in each country will have to work harder and buy less to enable his government to sell more.

The alternative is virtual bankruptcy. Then the country would not be able to buy any essential foodstuffs from other countries.

Commonwealth finance ministers resolved in secret talks today that each of their governments must quit spending more than it is earning by the second half of this year.

The task will be a tremendous one. In the second half of 1951, the gold-dollar reserves of the sterling partners dived by $1,500,000,000.

But there is some evidence that things may get a little better for the Commonwealth.

The value of British exports is climbing steadily, hitting an all-time peak of about $80,000,000,000 in 1951.

A lull in imports from the sterling area by the United States seems to be ending.

The ratio of import prices to export prices has begun to move back in favor of the sterling area.

BELLINGFORD, Eng. (CP)—England's few remaining historic windmills are slowly breaking down. One local mill was closed because the stock which holds the sails cannot be replaced, because of lack of spare parts.

Panama Uranium Offer Reported $3,000,000

PANAMA, Jan. 18 (AP)—The newspaper Panama American reported Wednesday that a farmer in Tole in northwestern Panama had been offered $3,000,000 by an unnamed United States company for his land because uranium had been discovered there.

THE HOLE IN THE BATHROOM FLOOR

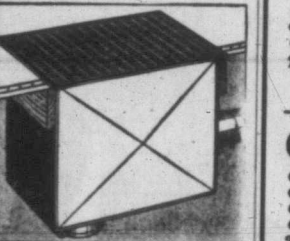

For some time now, it has caused me the wrath, the hole in the line, beside the bath. "It just looks A.W.F.U.L." the G.F. cries. "I'm ashamed of the place in visitor's eyes. And it doesn't look good, & that's for sure, especially with you... in-furni-ture." "O.K." I replied, "I'll have a look-see," & so I got down on creaking knees. I shoved my chisel, "neath the quarter-round, right away I saw the board wasn't sound. "Himmmmm." I sed, with utmost gravity, "I felt like a dentist, with too deep a cavity. 'It'll have to come out, yes, I'll have to remove, but how do I get this tongue from the groove?" I sat on the chenille, while the problem grew, then decided to do what I always do. My theory I know, isn't so hot, I just picked up my hammer & hit it a swat. I must have given a real hefty blow. I smashed right thru, to the ship-lap below. "The larger forceps," to the "nurse" I sed, but the nail broke off, too weak was the head. "I'll have to use elevators, that is plain, & another shot, too, of nova-cain." "Oh goodness," she sed, and handed my chisel, "are you quite sure, Doctor, you won't make a fizzle?" "I'm quite steady, thank you, just keep your head," the tooth (I mean board) flew high over-head. Her look revealed she admired my actions, "your marvellous, Doctor, with these tough extractions." This extravagant praise, I did lightly dismiss. "Come in the lab & I'll give you a kiss." Away from me she tried to swerve, "Oh, Doctor," she breathed, "you've such a nerve." I lifted her face from her chin beneath, "I've got nerve enuff, for two rows of teeth."

"Now... L-O-O-K," she sed, "don't get sore," & so we looked at the hole in the bathroom floor. "Well, Dr., just what do we do the linoleum, of course, we'll have to re-new." A bell rang then, I got off the floor, she went below to answer the door. "Why... yes, dear," she sed, "your Uncle's up-stairs, run on up & give him the scare." Now Rickey is 5, his smile is pure gold, tall stories to him, I have many times told. And always in the past, he'd laugh & shout, but of late the truth, he's been somewhat in doubt. "BOO," he shouted, bashed open the door, then joined me there & we sprawled on the floor. Just the SIGHT of a hammer, -that's all Rickey needs, and what does he care if his finger bleeds. "Go right ahead, hit it a swat, you sure are getting a much better shot." Then he arose and wondering stood, "I'm smashing it," I replied, "cause we're right out of wood." That doubting smile spread o'er his face, "yes, we haven't any wood for our fire-place. And I can't get any from the store, so I'm busting up this bathroom floor. So go ahead, let's have more clamor, go on home, get your own hammer." He laughed so hard he fell on his back, then he grabbed MY hammer, again to attack. "You hit with that hatchet, c'mon Uncle Mori," and this is the end of a VERY TRUE STORY.

Home Power Rate Boost Authorized

Accounts Over $3 A Month Up
Minimum Of $1 Immediately

Increased residential electricity rates for the B.C. Electric Co. were approved today by the Public Utilities Commission.

They are effective immediately. Accounts of $3 a month will not be affected, according to the company. Those over $3 will be affected "in proportion to consumption" with a minimum increase of $1 a month per account.

The new rate will be 2.5 cents a kilowatt hour as compared to the old two-cent-a-kilowatt hour charge. It will be applied to what the company calls "second-step" rates.

"We have accepted the company's new schedules and filed them," D. K. Penfold, acting chairman of the P.U.C. announced.

HITS ALL B.C.

"Their application was for half a cent increase on second block of domestic residential rate," he added. "The increase will apply to all the company's operations in B.C."

The company presented the schedules for filing Dec. 27. When they are accepted they become a legal, chargeable rate, Penfold said. He added that Victoria City Council was the only group to ask for a meeting with the P.U.C. on the matter.

"Our staff spent the greater part of two weeks in Vancouver, verifying figures," the company submitted, he said.

Vancouver Stocks

Heavy trading continued to closing today, with some sharp gains in oils and mines and new issues setting some surprising highs.

Calmont at $2.43 closed with a gain of 28 cents on the day. Central Leduc rose to $3.15 from $2.30, up 4 cents, and Federated Petroleum gained 15 cents to $8.85.

Gas Explorers, a new one, jumped suddenly in afternoon trading to $1.40.

PREMIER WILL NAME NEW MINISTERS SOON

PREMIER CHARGES 'FLAGRANT BREACH'

Text Of Statement Details 'Disregard Of
Constitutional Procedure' By Tory Chief

Text of the announcement issued by the premier's office follows:

Resignation of Hon. Herbert Anscomb as minister of finance and as a minister of the Crown was requested at a cabinet meeting this morning by Premier Byron I. Johnson on grounds of "a flagrant and arrogant disregard of the procedure of constitutional government."

Demand for the resignation came in consequence of Mr. Anscomb's "unwarranted and precipitate announcement that an agreement had been reached between the two governments in connection with the Dominion Provincial taxation agreement renewal."

In asking the minister of finance for his resignation, Premier Johnson in a press statement stated that "in spite of repeated violations by Mr. Anscomb of those principles governing the responsibilities of a cabinet minister, I have, in the public interest, long refrained from taking this action. I have had no wish to create any instability in our economic and other affairs, but the action of the minister of finance, in giving to the press the results of negotiations at Ottawa before he had advised and consulted with his colleagues in the cabinet constitute such a flagrant and arrogant disregard of the procedure of constitutional government that I had no other alternative."

"Such action must have been merely for the sake of securing some publicity and cannot be countenanced. I cannot have any trust in a minister who resorts to such tactics," the premier stated.

"I note from the press statement issued by Mr. Anscomb that he says an agreement has been reached between the two governments. No agreement had been reached because the government of this province was not consulted by Mr. Anscomb before he issued his statement. In fact the first intimation I had that such a press statement existed was from the members of the press gallery, who sought my observations in connection with it. It was necessary for my office to request and personally secure a copy of the release from Mr. Anscomb's office long after it had been issued to the press," the premier stated.

"This action on the part of Mr. Anscomb constitutes a long series of political reprehensible actions, which in the public interest I have in the past chosen to ignore in as much as there was so much at stake. There is still a great deal at stake in this province, the success of which can only be secured by the action I have been compelled to take in face of the circumstances," the premier continued.

For nearly three years the minister of finance has deliberately baited my colleagues and me. He has carried on an open fight with a minister of the Crown in direct contradiction to government policy on the question of removing appointment of King's Counsels from any influence of political importuning. In radio speeches he has given notice of dissolution of Coalition and then at the same time carried on with an arrangement which he admits he does not like. At the last session of the Legislature he delivered a budget address which was drastically amended from the one he presented to Cabinet, the amended speech constituting a public criticism of a fellow minister of the Crown. These and many other instances my colleagues and I forebore in the best interests of the people, but there comes a time when repeated violations of constitutional procedure cannot be longer countenanced. The failure to consult the members of the Lieutenant-Governor in Council before issuing a press statement on his negotiations at Ottawa has strained my patience to the breaking point.

"I quote this statement," the Premier said, "because it is so indicative of many other statements of a similar character that Mr. Anscomb has made when he seems to have desired to express his disapproval of government policy while still at the same time remaining within the government."

"Mr. Anscomb, I feel, is not familiar with his obligations as a minister of the Crown under our form of constitutional government, and in this connection I would refer to F. A. Ogg, who, in his 'English Government and Politics,' page 151, says:

RESIGN

Herbert Anscomb

E. C. Carson

R. C. MacDonald

Leslie H. Eyres

Tories Cross Floor; Early Election Seen

Premier Johnson is expected within a few days to fill the four vacancies in the provincial cabinet caused by the resignations today of Finance Minister Herbert Anscomb and his three Conservative colleagues in the Coalition break-up.

The Premier made no immediate comment in reply to Anscomb's declaration the Conservative Party will go into Opposition in the Legislature.

Whether the Premier will appoint all Liberals to the four cabinet vacancies was indefinite this afternoon. He already has Labor Minister John Cates, a straight Coalitionist, in the cabinet. There are two other M.L.A.'s under Coalition labels who might be available for cabinet duty.

General forecast is the Premier will make the appointments to form a temporary cabinet, go through a short session and call a general election before June 30.

British Columbia's Coalition government of Liberals and Conservatives broke apart this morning in a series of fast-moving developments.

A general election within a short time, with Liberals and Conservatives appealing as separate parties, was an immediate prospect.

The dramatic smash in Coalition—brewing for some time—came when Premier Johnson demanded the resignation of Finance Minister Herbert Anscomb, the Tory leader, for a "flagrant and arrogant disregard of the procedure of constitutional government."

He asserted Anscomb had released results of new tax agreement dealings with Ottawa before consulting the rest of the cabinet.

The Conservative leader and his three cabinet colleagues, Works Minister E. C. Carson, Mines Minister MacDonald and Trade Minister Leslie H. Eyres resigned two hours later.

Anscomb announced that all Conservative members within the Coalition (there are 11 all told) will go into Opposition in the Legislature.

Then he accused the Premier of breaking Coalition on a flimsy pretext and demanded an immediate election.

Anscomb said the Premier has no mandate to carry on as a Liberal government since the government was elected in 1949 as a Coalition.

The sudden break-up in the Coalition came when the regular Friday cabinet meeting assembled this morning.

After the Premier's dramatic demand, Anscomb and his three Conservative colleagues went into conference and two hours later the Coalition cabinet had split.

Premier Johnson's reaction to the Conservative decision was awaited this afternoon.

It is expected he will form a straight Liberal government by naming four Liberals to the cabinet posts vacated by the Conservatives.

The Legislature has been called for February 19. There is not time to hold an election before then, so it is expected he will meet the House as a Liberal government, hold a short session to vote supply to carry on the country, then hold the election.

Present standing of the parties is Liberal 23, Conservatives 11, C.C.F. 8, Coalitionists 3, Independents 1, Labor 1, Social Credit 1. This gives Johnson a bare majority if the three Coalitionists support him.

All members of the cabinet who are in the province had been advised to be present. The only absentee was Attorney-General Gordon Wismer. He is in London on holiday, but is reported flying home this week-end.

The cabinet meeting lasted only five minutes. Then Anscomb went to his own office with Works Minister E. C. Carson, Mines Minister R. C. MacDonald and Trade and Industries Minister Leslie H. Eyres, the other Conservatives in the cabinet.
